Laws. Morals. Compassion. These were just a few of the casualties of The Great War, which followed the unprecedented meteor shower of 2055. City life was obliterated through air strikes, both from Mother Nature and the worlds super powers. The survivors, what few of them there were, merely existed, foraging a new way of life in the badlands. Avoiding detection. Avoiding human contact. They drove these 4-wheeled monstrosities, scavenging for whatever remnants of their previous civilization they could find. These machines, as the people themselves, became known as the Desert Rebels.
