HEARD On Street Corners

By H. M. P.

TIM MEDDLIN says: "Two classes of folks have imposed on me more or less. The strong who can lick me and the weak I won't jump on."

The report of our last grand jury is anything but encouraging. It starts out with two indictments for murder and is followed by 60 other indictments, all of them for felonies. It shows us quite a lawless county. The only pleasing thing about it is that apparently the officers are doing their duty in arresting the criminals. And just here I want to say that situated as we are at the very mouth of the biggest oil field in the world, it's a good thing for our juries to let the wrong element know they cannot employ their criminal carrying on in Harrison County. We should continue to place every safeguard possible around our citizenship. Our officers are doing their duty. It's up to the rest of us.

What will it cost Harrison County to arrest and try these 62 persons? Crime costs this country, according to reliable statistics, more than thirteen billion dollars annually. More than all the money we spend for the churches and schools. It's something to think seriously about.

It's especially cheering how the United States Department of Justice is handling the major crimes since congress has given it power. Take the matter of kidnapping as an example: In the last thirteen months it has solved 32 cases of kidnapping; suspects awaiting trial 18; convictions 74; sixteen of them life sentences; two death sentences have been imposed; three suspects killed themselves; and only ten were acquitted. Only yesterday a man was arrested in Oregon who had $1,600 of the Urschel marked money on him and an arrest was made in the June Robles kidnapping case. Uncle Sam never tires.

This paper opposed two of the state constitutional amendments. The ones we opposed were defeated in this county as follows: No. 1 received 142 votes and against 402; No. 3 received 166 votes and against 416. All of the other six amendments which we advocated carried by big majorities. We seemed to be on the popular side.

Rev. H. F. Selcer, president of the Harrison County Red Cross chapter, told me yesterday that not one toy had been taken to the firemen's headquarters for repairs and painting. It's the only chance for a lot of poor children to receive anything from Santa Claus. I am sure in hundreds of homes there are toys that the children have outgrown that should be made to make other children happy this Christmas. The question is up to the mothers who read this to tell their children about it. Take the toys to the firemen's headquarters on the south side of the square. The fire boys can make them look like new.

I wonder if the Boy Scouts wouldn't volunteer to gather up these toys? Making a little child

SUICIDES AFTER TRIPLE MURDER

Stoneham, Mass., (U.P.)—An apparent triple murder and suicide was disclosed tonight with the finding of the bodies of Joel E. Lidquist, 27, his wife, Corinne, 28, and their two children, Syrenes, 2, and another daughter born only 12 days ago.

Lidquist, whose body was found hanging from a bedroom chandelier, apparently committed suicide after beating his wife unconscious, strangling her with a belt four inches wide, and slashing and stabbing the children to death with kitchen knives as they slept.

THIRD PARTY TREND GAINS WEIGHT AFTER LAFOLLETTE VICTORY

U. S. LENDING UNITS REPORT TO ROOSEVELT

President Given Reassuring
Notes Upon Return
To Capitol

Washington, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Reassuring reports from the administration's gigantic lending agencies were laid before President Roosevelt as he returned to carry forward his new deal program. The Chief Executive heard first from the Home Owners Loan Corporation, through its chairman, John H. Fahey. The latter pointed out that of the $3,000,000,000 originally available for mortgage refunding as a major recovery step, a third of that amount still remained.

Observers regarded Fahey's survey of the situation as indicative of a healthier tone in private lending inasmuch as approximately 90 per cent of the HOLC credit has gone into that field.

Jesse Jones, Reconstruction Finance Corporation chairman, also a White House visitor, said he believed the RFC had sufficient funds on hand and would not need further appropriation from congress. The President resumed work on the new budget, conferring with Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell.

"We are making progress," was all Morgenthau would say.

An indication that Mr. Roosevelt was desirous of fast action on the new appropriation bills was seen today in the visit of Chairman James P. Buchanan of the house appropriations committee. Buchanan said an effort would be made to put through the money measures in time to have them out of the way before other committees reported out general legislative matters.

Postmaster General James A. Farley said today the election had proved that the "Republican Party is through."

"We will make it unanimous in 1936," the chairman of the Democratic National Committee added. "The people of this country are tired of the kind of leadership the Republicans have been giving them. It will be a long time before the people have confidence in the Republican Party as a whole." He said he had no fear of "left wingers" in congress.

Paris, Nov. 9.—(Friday)—(U.P.)—The French Republic temporarily survived another political crisis early today when Premier Pierre Etienne Flandin, youthful left-Republican leader, announced at 12:45 a. m. he had succeeded in forming a "truce cabinet" to succeed the ministry of Gaston Doumergue.

Flandin, sportsman and finance expert, took upon his broad shoulders the delicate task of government relinquished by the grey-haired Doumergue, overthrown on his financial and constitutional reform policies.

Washington, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—A one-time Republican, Sen. Robert LaFollette of Wisconsin, walked into the White House today—prophet of a new alignment for American political parties.

First of the election voters to break bread at the White House LaFollette made a special trip here to have luncheon with Mr. Roosevelt. No Democratic winner has yet enjoyed the privilege. He left in mid-afternoon for Chicago. LaFollette broke away from both major parties in Wisconsin and organized the "Progressive Party." Bearing its label, he swept to re-election and carried his brother, Phil, into the governorship.

It is men like LaFollette, political experts were saying tonight, who will cast aside the labels of "Democrat" and "Republican" and lead the way to a realignment that will make men "liberals" or "conservatives."

After luncheon, LaFollette stood on the White House steps and preached to newspapermen the gospel of the new political line-up.

"I have said repeatedly," he said, "that I felt certain that the economic crisis was of such a fundamental nature that it was bound to produce political realignments in this country, just as the fundamental crisis of human slavery produced a political realignment prior to the Civil War."

"I think the victory of the Progressive Party six months after its organization in Wisconsin is significant to this extent—it gives a practical demonstration of what many have contended theoretically, namely:

"That a new party with a sound but fundamental and far-reaching program to meet the issues created by this economic crisis draws its support from the farmers, wage earners, individual business and professional men for the simple reason that their economic interests in this crisis are

ESTES HONORED AT BANQUET BY 1,000 GREETERS

Many Prominent Visitors
Attend Longview
Party

Longview, Tex., Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Carl Estes, recent purchaser of The Longview News and Morning Journal, was honored here tonight at a testimonial dinner attended by a thousand business men, political leaders and personal friends from over the state.

Estes, responding to the greetings of those present, urged all Texans to "co-operate for a bigger and better Texas."

Among the speakers at the banquet were Governor-elect James V. Allred, United States Senator Tom Connally, and G. A. Bodenheimer, former mayor of Longview, and M. G. Blalock of Marshall.

Shortly before the dinner Estes received a telegram from Stephen J. Early, assistant secretary to President Roosevelt, containing greetings from the President. It read:

"The President has learned of the testimonial dinner to be tendered you today. Despite the accumulated official business awaiting him upon his return from Hyde Park he has asked me to convey his greetings and sincere best wishes for your success in your new undertaking."

TRIPLE SUICIDE
Malmo, Sweden, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Three brothers, 59, 64, and 65, all unemployed, committed suicide today, hanging themselves simultaneously in the same room.

Huge Twin-Motored Plane

Newark, N. J., Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker tonight smashed the transcontinental airplane record when he landed his huge silver air liner at Newark Airport at 8:46 p. m., EST, 12 hours, four minutes after taking off from Burbank, Calif.

The former war ace, accompanied by two co-pilots and several passengers, broke his own transport record of 13 hours, 2 minutes, making only one refueling stop, at Kansas City.

A crowd of 500 cheered as the Douglas plane slid into the brilliant area of the floodlights at the south end of the airport.

The huge twin-motored craft, which flew much of the journey through the rarified atmosphere of the sub-stratosphere, made the crossing in just two minutes less than one hour under the mark set by Rickenbacker in a similar ship last year.

Timers calculated the average speed in the 2,600-mile crossing at 215 miles an hour. Rickenbacker said he calculated actual flying time as 11 hours 55 minutes, and elapsed time—including time spent at Kansas City for refueling—at 12 hours, 7 minutes.

Highest speed attained was 225 miles an hour. That was when the Douglas was crossing western Kansas at an altitude of more than 15,000 feet. Rickenbacker said the average speed was 221 miles an hour. At times the plane soared to 17,500 feet. That was when the ship was crossing the Colorado Rockies.

"We had no particularly good breaks," Rickenbacker said. "Cross winds hit us most of the way. We got a three-quarter tail wind after we passed over Dayton, Ohio."

Larger Cotton Acreage To Be Allowed in 1935

9,634,000-BALE COTTON CROP IS FORECAST

Federal Estimate Is Lowest
For Any Season
Since 1901

Washington, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—The Department of Agriculture, estimating a 1934 cotton crop of 9,634,000 bales, today reported an increase of 181,000 bales, two per cent above its October forecast.

The indicated production is about 3,418,000 bales less than last year's crop and 5,032,000 bales below average annual production in the 5-year period, 1928-32. It is substantially less than the Bankhead Act tax-free quota of 10,460,251 bales and indicates a surplus of tax-exemption certificates in regions of shortage.

Today's forecast indicated the smallest crop since 1901 with one exception.

Most of the predicted increase from last month, the department reported, took place in states along the Mississippi river, particularly Arkansas, Missouri and Mississippi. Increases also were shown for Texas and Georgia. Oklahoma was the only major cotton-growing state showing a decline from the October estimates.

Conditions during October were "much more favorable than usual," the report said. Picking and ginning progressed rapidly in all states with virtually no loss of open cotton in fields.

An average of 169.3 pounds of cotton per acre has been or will be yielded by the 27,241,000 acres to be harvested, the department estimated.

At the same time, the census bureau reported that 7,920,231 bales had been ginned from the 1934 crop prior to Nov. 1 compared to 10,355,031 ginned from the 1933 crop prior to the corresponding date a year ago and 9,247,045 bales for 1932.

In many instances state production allotments under the Bankhead control act have been exceeded whereas in others, due principally to depletions caused by the drought, the quotas are unfilled. As a result, there is a surplus of bale certificates which exempt cotton produced within allotment from the bale tax of about $27.50. A market for all the surplus does not exist, however, since there has been comparatively less overproduction than underproduction.

(Copyright, 1934, by United Press)
Washington, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Cotton farmers participating in the acreage adjustment plan will be allowed to plant an additional 6,000,000 acres next year, it was learned today.

The AAA cotton section, it developed, has recommended to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace that the full 25 per cent reduction below "base" acreage permitted by the 1933 contracts be sought. Its suggestion probably will be accepted. This year's reduction averaged 40 per cent.

Under the proposed program, co-operating growers would qualify for an estimated $100,000,000 in benefit payments by limiting total planting to about 31,000,000 acres or 25 per cent less than annual average during the five years, 1928-32.

Assuming that, as this year, about 2,000,000 acres will be cultivated by non-cooperators, the total

MORE URSCHEL RANSOM MONEY IS UNEARTHED

Secret, Sound-Proof Room
Found at Suspect's
Residence

Medford, Ore., Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Federal agents searching the residence and grounds occupied by two suspects in the Charles F. Urschel kidnapping case today found additional ransom money and a secret, sound-proof room that would have been ideal for holding a victim for ransom.

A possibility that an Oregon or California kidnapping was frustrated by arrest at Roseburg, Ore., of A. H. Scott and Margaret Hurlienne, who had taken residence here, was seen in discovery of the room.

Miss Hurlienne rented the Medford dwelling last June. Since then the residence was improved and reconstructed at considerable cost. Among the additions to the dwelling was a small room at the rear, equipped with a ventilator and an electric heater. Officers said the room was so constructed that a man might yell from within at the top of his voice and not be heard outside.

Miss Hurlienne is said to be a

$100,000 BOND SET FOR ROBLES KIDNAP SUSPECT

Bail Is Hiked When Robson
Tries to Make Bond
Of $50,000

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Federal authorities fought to keep Oscar H. (Buster) Robson, former night club operator, in jail pending his hearing on charges of participating in the kidnapping of June Robles, six-year-old Tucson girl, today when Robson attempted to make bond of $50,000.

When V. L. Hash, Robson's counsel, informed U. S. Commissioner Daniel Hurley the bond was ready, the jurist ordered the bail raised to $100,000.

Robson was held in Maricopa County jail here awaiting a hearing Nov. 22 as the accused author of the ransom notes sent to June's father, Fernando Robles, and grandfather, Bernabe, last April after she was kidnapped.

Robson is a former college mate of Fernando Robles and is well known in Arizona as "the Playboy of the Southwest." He was arrested after a lengthy federal investigation climaxed by a comparison of his handwriting with that appearing on the $15,000 ransom notes.

Mrs. Margaret Robson, separated from her husband for several months, returned to him today and announced she would "fight by his side." She retained the attorney, who at once applied for a writ of mandamus to enable him to confer with Robson. The prisoner is being held incommunicado.

4 MISSING IN ELEVATOR FIRE

Newport News, Va., Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Four inspectors were unaccounted for as a grain elevator of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, valued at $300,000, burned here tonight from fire of unknown origin.

Trapped near the top when fire started several stories below them, the inspectors were thought to have been burned to death. Flames 60 feet high were visible from Norfolk, 12 miles away.

LEGISLATURE DOES TRICKS WITH TAXES

Will Seek to Instruct Tax
Collectors to Remit Penalties

COURT DECISIONS CITED TO SUPPORT PROCEDURE

Centennial Bill May Pass
If Filibuster Is Avoided

Austin, Tex., Nov. 8. (U.P.)—The fourth special session of the Texas Legislature tonight had a chance to salvage the major part of the session program in its two remaining days.

Tax penalty remission can be made effective immediately without reconsidering the bill. This will be attempted tomorrow by a resolution instructing tax collectors to accept taxes without penalties. Two-thirds vote of each branch will be necessary. Court decisions are cited to support such procedure.

Texas Centennial legislation can be passed if a filibuster is avoided.

Both houses were awaiting a conference report on the Colorado river improvement bill. At Washington, Congressman J. P. Buchanan was conferring with PWA attorneys on the same project.

When the house recessed until morning, the tax bill was before it with amendments being voted upon. Dallas representatives plan tomorrow to accept numerous corrective amendments that have been offered to get a vote on the bill. If a favorable vote results, a motion will be made to adjourn for a few moments. That will create another legislative day and the bill can be finally passed without a majority vote. This procedure will avoid necessity of mustering a four-fifths vote that would be required to vote twice on the bill in the same legislative day.

The companion bill for a Centennial appropriation of $5,000,000 already has passed the senate. It was given a favorable report today by the house appropriations committee. Four-fifths vote (100) would be necessary to take it up in the house tomorrow after the tax bill passed. Skilled parliamentarians believe it can be made an amendment to the Centennial tax bill and go through with the tax bill. By that procedure, both can pass if they get a simple majority.

DR. WITTENBERG ADDRESSES P. T. A. MEETING.

"Safeguarding the Child from Moral Harm" was the subject chosen by Dr. David H. Wittenberg when he addressed a meeting of the Stephen F. Austin Parent Teachers Association Tuesday afternoon in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Joe Carter introduced the speaker, who first explained what he meant by the word "moral." Contrasting the idea of the savage toward morals with the civilized conception of the term, he pointed out that the viewpoint of the human race toward right and wrong changes with the customs and the periods of history.

Stressing the fact that in America today the parent is principally responsible for the kind of morals his child has, he urged that the child be taught not to be fanatical, that he be brought to see that all people have a right to an opinion, that he be taught patriotism, thankfulness and forgiveness.

Pupils of the first and second grades, under the direction of Mrs. F. R. Harrison and Miss Mary Ware, presented a Thanksgiving program, with Mrs. Sims McCutchan, Jr., playing the accompaniment for the song selections.

During a business session, the executive committee voted to allow the city council $3.00 for the purpose of entertaining the county council at a meeting here January 19. Mrs. H. F. Selzer urged members to prepare themselves for the Red Cross call and called attention to the good work done by this organization.

Over 160 members are now enrolled in the Parent Teachers Association, it was announced by Mrs. P. L. Grundy, who urged that as many as possible become paid members in order that the organization may meet the standard requirements.

Twenty-one children are being served free milk, it was reported by Mrs. Frank McGee. She added that milk is being served to all primary grades where the children needed it, and that she had had a number of donations made to the cause.

Miss Bessie Ryan read a report of the last council meeting. Study clubs were organized under the direction of Mrs. Morgan Moore. She announced the five subjects for study as: character formation; leisure time program; mental hygiene; helping boys and girls to stand on their own feet; and good members for adolescents. Mrs. Moore stated that Mrs. William Joseph, president of the city council, will be glad to offer what is known as home study courses.

A prize of $1.00 was presented to the low fourth grade for having the largest percentage of mothers present for the meeting.

Mrs. Dana Taylor requested some of the mothers to remain after the meeting for the purpose of organizing the "Mother Singers" unit in the school, a requirement of each Parent Teachers Association.

Announcement was made of a lecture sponsored by the organization which will be given Friday afternoon at 1:40 at the school.

The president, Mrs. Sam Scott, explained the value of the organization's year books and urged the use of them throughout the year.

MRS. UNDERWOOD HAS BRIDGE PARTY.

Mrs. I. C. Underwood entertained a group of friends with a bridge party Tuesday afternoon at her home. Players filled three tables for the games.

Autumn flowers, with marigolds and roses predominating, filled the rooms, and the dining table, from which a bullet luncheon was served, was covered with a lace cloth, and held a yellow bowl of marigolds and yellow candles in silver holders. Mrs. D. S. Arnold served salads and Mrs. Underwood poured tea.

Mrs. George McDaniel was given a favor for high score and Mrs. William Scheuber, Jr., was given another favor.

ALTAR SOCIETY PLANS BRIDGE TOURNAMENT.

Ten members of the Altar Society of St. Joseph Church were present at a meeting at the home of Father Meyer Wednesday afternoon.

It was decided that the society will have a bridge tournament November 27 at the home of Mrs. Roy Barnes.

Mrs. Edwin Ryan, Jr., conducted a business session.

Mrs. Roy Barnes will be hostess for the social meeting of the society to be held November 21.

MISS BETTY SUCKE LEADS IN QUEEN'S RACE.

MISS FANNIE RATCHFORD GIVES LECTURE.

To a small literary group, in the Powell library Monday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Powell presented Miss Fannie E. Ratchford, internationally-known Bronte authority, in a lecture on the Bronte family.

Preceding the lecture, a brief musical program was given: a piano solo by Mrs. Henry Armstrong, a vocal duet by Mrs. George Recknagel and Miss Laura Powell, and a group of songs by Miss Laura Powell.

Mr. Powell introduced Miss Ratchford, his cousin, and in a two-hour study of the Brontes, their lives and their works, Miss Ratchford gave a detailed account especially of the lives and literary work of Charlotte Bronte, author of "Jane Eyre," and her sister Emily, author of "Wuthering Heights."

Miss Ratchford told of her Guggenheim Fellowship, several years ago, which gave her the opportunity of a year's study in Europe, doing research work in all Bronte literary material, and of her study in the Haworth Museum, at Haworth, England, the former home of the Brontes, which contains the largest collection of Bronte manuscripts in this country, two of which are in the State University at Austin, and others in different libraries in the United States.

In the lecture Miss Ratchford traced the literary development of the Bronte sisters from early childhood to full maturity, and this literary record is the most complete. Miss Ratchford stated, in all literary history, due to the large number of juvenile manuscripts of the Brontes which are still preserved and which show definitely and clearly every step of the development of these women of genius. The popularity of "Jane Eyre" and "Wuthering Heights" still calls for edition after edition for modern readers.

Miss Ratchford has written two books on the Brontes, and a third definitive work on the same subject is now in the hands of her publisher.

After the lecture, Miss Ratchford gave opportunity for questions and discussion.

DEFINITION OF NEW DEAL GIVEN

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Edward R. Burke, Democratic senator-elect from Nebraska, is credited by President Roosevelt with giving the best definition of the new deal. The President quoted the definition in a speech at Madison, Wis., last summer. It follows: "The new deal is an old deal—as old as the earliest aspirations of humanity for liberty and justice and the good life. It is as old as Christian ethics, for basically its ethics are the same. It is new as the Declaration of Independence."

U. S. MOVES LEFT IN PROCESS OF PARTY REALIGNMENT BETWEEN RADICALS AND CONSERVATIVES

(Copyright, 1934, by United Press.)
Washington, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—The United States has moved left in a process of party realignment between radicals and conservatives.
Three states lead the radical procession, Minnesota, Louisiana and Wisconsin. In some others, notably California and Oregon, the radical movement was blocked or reversed in Tuesday's general election.

But the political center of gravity represented by the new deal has shifted in this country which, until 1932 in the post-war period, was the most conservative of the major nations. The off-year election this week ratified the leftward trend indicated two years ago when millions of American voters cast their ballots against Herbert Hoover rather than for his opponent.

Wisconsin's LaFollette brothers succeeded Tuesday in launching a new third party which seized Wisconsin from the old-line Democratic and Republican organizations. The Wisconsin progressive party platform was vaguely phrased last September but followed closely the personal political creed of Sen. Robert M. LaFollette who abandoned the Republican party this year.

The LaFollette invite the discontented farm elements, labor and small business to amalgamate in a new national party which is to lead a campaign against the conservatives. Wisconsin progressives advance a program of planned economy. It involved redistribution of wealth, which in more temperate form is part of President Roosevelt's new deal.

The progressive redistribution would be by means of income and inheritance taxation and centralized government control of the banking system. The LaFollette proposed public ownership of utilities and of industries manufacturing necessities of life. They would give every man a job through public works expenditures.

Louisiana offers Sen. Huey P. Long, radical Democrat and anti-new dealer, who would make "every man a king." Long has been talking about secession from the union to permit Louisiana to recover from depression. He refers to adjacent Mississippi as a province of his own state. He looks beyond Mississippi to Arkansas for political dominion.

"Share the wealth" is the sesame of Longism. Tuesday's election ratified some typical Long propositions in Louisiana designed to shift the burden of taxation from the little man to the big man, measured in terms of money. The $1 poll tax for voters was eliminated and homes valued at less than $2,000 were exempted for taxation. Long plans to summon the legislature into special session to pass "some more poor people laws."

Minnesota approved a socialistic farmer-labor third party platform which advocated: Government ownership of banks, utilities and insurance companies; a state canning factory; old age pensions, unemployment insurance; and a variety of propositions which considerably exceeds the limits of new deal aspirations.

The platform also promised state publication of school books. Republicans charged the farmer-laborists intended to issue communistic books to schools.
The preamble of the farmer-labor platform stated bluntly that capitalism should be abolished immediately and be replaced by a sensible economic system founded upon socialism. President Roosevelt boosted Gov. Floyd B. Olson, farmer-laborer, when he was in Minnesota last August. But the President stands for private profit. California turned back the radical thrust by defeating Upton Sinclair, Democratic gubernatorial candidate. Sinclair sponsored EPIC, a plan of production for use which involved barter and a tax program which frightened the state. But 800,000 Californians voted for Sinclair and EPIC. Approximately 1,250,000 votes were cast against him.

Joe Zimmerman, without organization but on a radical platform polled almost 100,000 votes for governor in Oregon, losing to Charles H. Martin, new dealer. Joseph I. France, campaigning for Senator in Maryland as a Republican on an advanced program of social insurance, forged well beyond 100,000 votes in that comparatively small state.

Mississippi sent to the Senate Theodore G. Bilbo, a printing press money man who may back the new deal but who will be tempted by more radical programs.

Nebraska experimented cautiously by ratifying a state constitutional amendment for a unicameral legislative system. Sen. George W. Norris, Republican new dealer, won the parties to that plan in an effort to make government more efficient and responsive.

As remarkable as some of the economic changes proposed or effected is the continued American movement away from the age of innocence. Five more states voted this week, West Virginia, Nebraska, Idaho, Wyoming and Florida. Dry Kansas remained dry. Most Massachusetts counties which voted on the question decided to legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse and dog races, since 1932 there has been a general relaxation of laws against liquor and betting and the trend apparently is to continue.

LAFOLLETTE IS WELCOMED INTO F. R.'S SANCTUM

Whether he talked to Mr. Roosevelt along those lines, LaFollette declined to say. There is ample evidence, however, that the administration cares little for party labels and will throw its support to a Democrat if he thinks on national problems as the new dealer does.

If LaFollette's prediction of a realignment comes true, it will mean a stampede across party lines. Democratic senators like Carter Glass of Virginia, Bailey of North Carolina and Tydings of Maryland probably would join the conservatives. Republicans like Norris of Nebraska, Frazier of North Dakota and Johnson of California would flock to the liberal standard. The issue may be joined in 1936 when Mr. Roosevelt comes up for re-election.

Tommie Marvin was awarded a fluke decision over Ivan Vacturoff, and Bill Sledge drew with Hans Snider before a fair crowd of fans last night at the regular weekly groan and grunt in the West Houston street arena.

Fans voiced loud dissatisfaction when Marvin was awarded the third and deciding fall from the Russian. Vacturoff dropped the first fall to the Indian, but came back to hurt Marvin with a vicious slam to take the second drop. Marvin covered after some torrid struggling in the third encounter, and Referee Theo Whitehurst patted the Indian's shoulders. Ringsiders disagreed with the umpire. Sledge, former C. O. # LEGISLATURE DOES TRICKS WITH TAXES

The proposed Centennial tax on finished syrups was eliminated today. Rival attempts to cut the Centennial oil tax and to increase it both were defeated, leaving the tax one-eighth of a cent per barrel. Amendments to the proposed additional tax on race track wagers were pending when the house recessed.

The senate, aroused from its lethargy by agreement on delinquent tax relief, sped through a calendar of house bills today, finally passed 19 bills and five concurrent resolutions that originated in the house.

Included were the Port Arthur dredge bill, the bill permitting the Texas Centennial Commission to finance the Centennial on a profit-making basis, and the enabling act for the Lower Neches Valley Authority involving nine East Texas counties.

The Port Arthur bridge bill is ready for the governor's approval. It permits construction from state, federal and county funds of a bridge over the Neches river for Highway 87, with a clearance of 176 feet to permit passage of ships underneath.

The Centennial bill permits the commission to sell concessions to private enterprises in order to increase its revenues.
The Neches river bill was amended to appropriate $15,000 to pay cost of plans and preparations for construction of a dam near Rockwall with federal PWA aid. It also permits a court test on the district's obligations to satisfy PWA as to its security. Final passage by 19-8 vote was not sufficient to make it effective immediately.

Other bills finally passed extended to Dec. 31, 1935, the time in which school districts may obtain PWA grants for stadia, etc.; provided a new method of service in suits to remove cloud from title; changed the terms of district court in Potter County; validated El Paso city bonds to make possible a PWA loan.

The senate appropriated $15,000 for boxing and wrestling regulation, $1,460 for deficiency claims in the State Banking Department, $2,500 for State Board of Control office equipment, and an extra $30,000 for expenses of the session; permitted deer hunting with dogs in Brazoria County canyons; limited trapping of fur-bearing animals in Jasper and Newton counties to December and January.

The Senate voted for a thorough study of Texas' entire tax system, adopting a resolution by Senator Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield creating a special committee of three Senators.

The committee was instructed to study the tax and financial situation in Texas with a view of "distributing the tax burden more equitably by bringing all property under taxation." It will report to the 44th legislature next January, and submit bills carrying out a "balance the budget" program.

The Duggan resolution observed there now exists a state deficit of approximately $14,000,000, and despite economies expenditures are exceeding revenues by nearly seven per cent.

"The value of all sorts of taxable property in Texas is at least $10,250,000,000 and only $3,938,117,451 of property was rendered for taxation in 1933.

"It is evident that about twice as much of the wealth of Texas is escaping taxation altogether as is being taxed, or is at least failing to carry its just portion of the tax burden," the resolution read.

House resolution for sine die adjournment Saturday noon was laid on the table. A resolution directing centennial year tourists to historical spots was adopted. The House miscellaneous claims bill was tabled subject to call.
The House today passed finally and sent to the Senate a bill that raises the salary of the county judge of Anderson County to $3,500 a year and the salaries of Anderson county commissioners to $1,800 a year. Rep. R. M. Johnson of Palestine said the bill restores salaries previously reduced.

VOTING CHARTS SHOW BONUS AND INFLATION GAIN

(Copyright, 1934, by United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Powerful inflation and bonus strength in the next congress was revealed by United Press election charts today.

Coupled with pronounced left wing tendencies of many new members, these issues arose out of the election as certain to harass President Roosevelt in attempting to keep congress from meddling with the currency or paying off $2,000,000,000 to the veterans.

Democratic senators elected were two to one for the bonus which has inflation tied up with it. A total of 118 members of the next house are out, and out inflationists. A total of 174 house members are aligned for the "green-back" payoff of the bonus.

Late returns today from congressional districts indicated the administration would retain its present house strength of 309 and possibly pass the 313 figure, the number of Democrats elected in 1932. Vacancies have occurred since. Senate two-thirds majority is conceded. But these unprecedented off-year majorities will lack new deal cohesion.

Bloc movements, the United Press chart indicated, would center around the bonus and currency inflation. It was considered doubtful, however, that either could be passed over a presidential veto.

The 30-hour week bill, inflation payoff of farm debts and more far-reaching social legislation than the administration may sponsor will tax house leadership strategy.

Some observers believed that despite the unwieldy majorities, the evidenced national vote of confidence in the president would aid in keeping Democratic recalcitrants in line.

The manner in which conservative candidates went down to defeat in Connecticut, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania and Illinois sharply showed the trend of political ideas.

SCOUT CHIEF VISITS HERE
Stressing the importance of scouting in the social advancement of America, Stanley Harris, international Boy Scout leader, addressed a combined meeting of Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs yesterday at the Hotel Marshall.

Mr. Harris, who was one of the founders of the Boy Scout movement in America, is now promoting inter-racial scouting with particular attention to negroes, Mexicans and foreign-born boys of the United States. Progress is being made in this work, he reported.

Citing the vast cost of crime in America and pointing out ways in which scouting combats it, he declared that the one antidote to crime is in the development of individual character. This, he said, is the major ideal of the entire scout program.

The Boy Scout band, under the direction of C. E. Bussey, gave a concert at the meeting. Dan Diabrell, scoutmaster of the band troop, and L. S. Harkey, district scout executive for East Texas, were introduced.

HIGHER COTTON ACREAGE LOOMS FOR NEXT CROP

33 cotton area would approximate 33,000,000 acres compared to 27,000,000 in 1934. An average yield of 170 pounds per acre would produce a crop of slightly more than 11,000,000 bales.

News that the full 25 per cent cut would be sought came as the department of agriculture's crop reporting board issued its November production estimate, showing the 1934 crop to be substantially less than 10,000,000 bales.

The AAA must submit the new cotton program to producers before Dec. 1. Those who haven't signed contracts may do so, but little additional sign-up was foreseen.

The plan will provide, it was learned, that a contractor with a "base" of 100 acres who planted 60 acres this year may plant at least 75 acres in 1935.

Officials emphasized that the voluntary program, based on acreage, has nothing to do with the Bankhead Act, based on baleage. They expressed private fears, however, that unless the Bankhead plan is continued another year the voluntary program would collapse.

Cully A. Cobb, cotton section chief, predicted that the south would vote to retain the Bankhead Act. A referendum of the cotton belt will begin next month. If an "unmistakable" majority favors the act, President Roosevelt is directed by law to proclaim it effective for another year.

The Bankhead plan recently has been showered with criticism. A strong bloc headed by Sen. Ellison D. Smith, D., S. C., has announced its opposition. Smith promises to introduce an amendment for the act's repeal.

MORE URSCHER RANSOM MONEY IS UNEARTHED

Department of Justice agents searching the outbuildings of the Medford house found $1,460 in currency, all in $20 bills such as were paid by Urscher when he bought his release for $250,000. They found also $4,000 in drafts on a Denver, Colo., bank payable to Clara Feldman.

Scott lies critically injured with a fractured skull in a Roseburg hospital. When he was taken from the wreck of his automobile near Roseburg last Friday officers found $1,860 in Urscher ransom bills in his wallet. Miss Hurtienne was arrested when she came to his bedside.

Both are charged with conspiracy in concealing ransom money. They will be removed to Oklahoma City to face trial in the case that has sent 15 of the Bates-Kelly gang to prison.

Miss Hurtienne will be taken to Oklahoma City in a few days, United States Marshal Jack Summerville said tonight. Scott will be removed for trial when he recovers sufficiently. He has been unconscious most of the time since the accident.

Dear Father, I thank Thee for the beauty and bounty of the world in which Thou hast placed me and for the gifts of friends and loved ones. Amen.

TRANSCENDENCY

There is no reason for my love;
And friendship has become the wrath
Of everything we made it of.

What we have wrought, what time has wrought,
We knew not then, we know not now;
Erosion crumbled conscious thought—
We have survived both why and how.

THE PRESIDENT ENDORSED

Now that the elections are over and the President has been overwhelmingly endorsed he is free to go ahead with his measures of recovery. Undoubtedly the administration is getting set for another big push for a return to prosperity. It is generally understood in official circles in Washington that in 1935 the government is going to spend as much as five billion dollars on some kind of a new public works program. It will be spent for the most part on a money back basis for projects which in the majority of cases will be self-liquidating. Low interest and long terms. The plan will probably include school buildings, municipal utilities, rural rehabilitation, extension of light and power systems, rebuilding of railroad equipment, super highways, grade crossing eliminations and other worthwhile objects. It is not likely that the present plans of local work will be continued.

The administration is dead in earnest in its efforts to increase employment. Retail and wholesale business has shown a healthy increase and business failures are lower than they have been in a number of years. But unemployment sticks out like a sore thumb and it is evident we can have no solid recovery until our workers get to work. For September the best estimate is that 10,951,000 were unemployed. The peak for the depression was placed by the commerce department at 13,689,000. Therefore unemployment has only been reduced about 20 per cent. There were fewer persons unemployed in September 1934 than there were for the same month a year ago. It is clear that we have only made a comparative small dent in unemployment since we started on the upgrade some 18 months ago. The President is said to be much concerned over this aspect of the situation and apparently the only remedy is for the government, in co-operation with the states and cities, to step into the breach. What the final outcome will be no one can tell. But that something must be done at once to relieve the present crisis of unemployment is very evident. The country has given the President the mandate to move forward.

COTTON EXPORTS DECREASE ONE-HALF

The decrease in cotton exports continue to decline at an alarming rate. The amount of cotton exported during the last 12 months, ending with November 1st, shows a little more than 50 per cent less than for last year. Secretary Wallace tries very hard to explain the reason for this is not the course of his department but lays the blame on the tariff walls we have erected. This argument would be more convincing if it were not for the fact that the present tariff is five years old and some reason it has not affected our cotton export until this year. It really is very plain why our exports have fallen off if Mr. Wallace would face the proposition. We have curtailed our cotton yield and this has encouraged other cotton raising countries to increase their production. Then we have artificially raised the price in this country by loaning money on cotton. This has enabled other countries to undersell us. This is all there is to the question. If other countries continue to increase their yields we may find ourselves entirely out of the cotton export business. The administration is not primarily at fault. It opposed the Bankhead bill and only yielded after it appeared the South wanted it. But the South should consider the far view rather than the opportunity to get an enhanced price for one year. We may think we are making Liverpool pay higher for our cotton but this is not true. The price of cotton in English money has not increased. It is because we have placed the value of our gold dollar at 59 cents that makes it appear that the foreigners are paying more for our cotton. They are paying more dollars for it but they are buying those dollars that they pay us at 59 cents.

It is true we should not raise too much cotton but if the government is to enforce curtailment it should confine that curtailment to the large producer of cotton. ## INJURY JINX HITS TIGERS IN BACKFIELD

Old Man Hard Luck paid College of Marshall an overtime visit this week as the Tigers readied themselves for the first conference clash of the season with Los Morris College Indians in Jacksonville Friday night.

Two mainstays of Coach C. T. Hamel's backfield—E. B. White and Burnham Waller—were nursing injuries when the Tigers wound up a stiff scrimmage session Wednesday. Waller appears to be definitely out of the lineup for several weeks with a swollen kneecap. White has a sprained ankle. Hamel doesn't know for certain whether the "Leaping Lena" will be able to get into the game Friday night. Both men are riled.

These injuries just about wrecked the "Iron Man" backfield. The starting line-up will find Moore, Peddiggrew and Gries in harness. Coe has an ailment, but probably will be able to step against the Indians.

In order to get some reserve power in the backfield, Hamel has been running Kessinger, center, and Frank Clark, guard, with the ball luggers and backfield blockers. L. V. Hightower will get the call at wing opposite Holcomb as Gries

C., was benefited by taking Cardui: "I suffered a great deal from weakness in my back and pains in my side and felt so miserable," she writes. "I read of Cardui and decided to try it. I felt better after I took my first bottle, so kept on taking it as I felt such a need of strength, and it helped me so much."

"Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician."

goes back to the secondary. This order of things made the Tiger outlook a dreary one, indeed, as they put finishing touches on the training spell. Contrary to popular belief, Lon Morris has a much stronger club than last year, and the Indians have been pointing all year for the C. O. M. game.

With both White and Waller out of the game, and with the "Iron Man" forward wall weakened to fill out the backfield holes, prospects for a C. O. M. victory appeared slim.

THE DAILY PHINOGRAM

... a daily column of facts and figures. You may send, if you wish, an e-mail to this newspaper—your comments and criticisms to the old phinographer.

Phin

I recall having read many articles written by editors acknowledging receipt of spare ribs and backbones, apples, potatoes and other comestibles in season, but somehow or other it never occurred to me that there was any truth in them. I suppose I must have thought that they were just "come on" gags by which the editors hoped some kind fairy would come, through the power of suggestion, to the aid of their larders.

I was therefore very happily surprised, after my column on pork sausage, to have a packing house owner come in and hand me six boxes of his own product.

I hereby publicly acknowledge, in the manner of the editors aforementioned, my thanks to the donor and I extend to him also the hope that his sausage sales grow by leaps and bounds. They deserve to. I tried his sausage, along with better cakes and steaming coffee for my breakfast and they met all the rigid requirements I had laid down for them. They were excellent—which is saying a lot, for I claim to be a sausage connoisseur!

Now, while my acceptance of this batch of sausage may have definitely destroyed my amateur standing as a columnist, that isn't worrying me one iota. In fact, the incident has given me ideas, inspirations. I am worrying now only about how to cash in on them to the best advantage.

For example, yesterday, it developed that I needed some pajamas. As I hadn't as yet received the gift of sausage, the inspiration hadn't yet come to me. So I went out and actually bought the pajamas. Now, if I had had the inspiration just a few minutes earlier I could possibly have wangled them without the outlay of any cash or credit.

I should simply have begun the squeeze play by writing a column again the old fashioned night shirt, scoring point by point against its ugliness and its shortcomings and ending by singing the praises of the more modern sleeping garment. A very simple matter considering the subject matter!

Such a column, I have no doubt, would have been a wonderful stimulant to pajama sales. It would have suggested additional pairs of pajamas to regular wearers and might conceivably have made some converts among the reactionaries who still cling to nightshirts—or I might better have said, whose nightshirts cling to them!

Then, had some pajama maker or vendor risen to the bait (like the sausage packer) my pajama problems would have been over for the season.

This racket, I perceive, has great possibilities. I need shoes. I wonder what shoe manufacturer would subsidize me to the tune of a half dozen pairs if I should attack the shoddy custom of going barefooted. Possibly Madame Secretary Perkins herself, would be interested. Shabbiness and nakedness are degenerating conditions. I need a work of clothes. Maybe I could work on that to advantage. A

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep...Vigor...Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOANE'S FILLS... a doctor's prescription... which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOANE'S FILLS... the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOANE'S FILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-McBurren Co.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By C. N. CHRISTIAN, M.D.

Hookworm Is a Disease
From the Soil—Extreme Cases Are Pitiful and Unnecessary

YESTERDAY we took up the question of the ordinary intestinal worms, but we cannot complete this subject without considering the hookworm. Unlike the other worm invasions, in which the larvae or eggs are taken in with undercooked food, the hookworm enters the skin of the feet and hands. It appears, in the United States, among the colored and white field hands of the south, who work in the soil barefooted, or those working in the cotton mills, and can be acquired by eating dirty fruit or vegetables.

DR. CHRISTIAN

The eggs enter the skin, they are taken up by the blood and are carried to the lungs, are coughed into the mouth and swallowed, and in the small intestine they develop into worms about one-half inch long. They do not multiply in the intestine and unless there is continued re-infection through the skin, they do not cause symptoms. It is only after repeated infection with large numbers of eggs that disease results.

The worms in the intestine produce large numbers of eggs which pass out to contaminate the soil or any other thing with which they come in contact.

AFTER repeated infections, when the number of worms becomes excessive, the symptoms of illness begin to appear. These may be of all degrees. The person is at first suspected of shyness and laziness, but as the disease increases, marked anemia is evident and the skin becomes pale.

A Negro becomes an ashy white color. The lips, tongue, and membranes of the mouth, the palms of the hands, and soles of the feet turn white and unhealthy looking. The legs become swollen, the abdomen distended, and the heart rapid and violent.

If blood is drawn, it looks pale and watery, and on excitation, severe shortness of breath results. These persons are very pathetic looking creatures, the head and body are large, legs shriveled, and deformed, eyes dull and listless, with a yellow tinge; the face is likely to be swollen and disfigured.

This is the description of an extreme case, but thousands are suffering from varying degrees of hookworm. It is the cause of much of the inefficiency and the backward physical and mental development of the rural population of the south.

The treatment of the milder forms is quite successful and much good can be accomplished in the severe cases. The treatment must be persistent and great effort made to prevent re-infection.

THE favorite remedy at this time is carbon tetrachloride, but it should not be given if many round worms are present. Also it should not be followed by any kind of oil or alcoholic fluid. A saline purge is first given, then from five to seven drops of the remedy on sugar is given to a child followed by another saline. Repeated treatments are often necessary. Mild cases can be detected by a microscopic examination, which is usually done at the state laboratories. The most important thing to be done in the infested communities is to provide education in the line of sanitation to eradicate the disease from the soil.

The State Health Departments have done much, but as the returns from taxes diminish, this work has suffered. The supplying of shoes so the feet are not contaminated is an ideal to be accomplished.

Now that motor travel is so extensive, the possible infection from hook worm is a menace to the general public. Every type of organization and every health authority must be enlisted to promote education and aid in the removal of the cause of the infection. Only in this way can health be insured and efficiency restored to those areas already infested.

Concerning Questions
Dr. Christian offers readers the privilege of addressing questions to him care of this paper. He will answer questions of general interest in his regular daily column on this page.

Guide to Charm

VELVETY SKINS
FOR EVERYBODY IS NEWER MODE

By JACQUELINE HUNT

OCTOBER is a joyous month with its sun and vivid colors and burning leaves, but it is also a period of experimenting and adjustment. By November, however, we can definitely settle down to the routine of the winter—the activities, the work and even the beauty treatments that really belong to the season.

Right now we are most concerned with the means of achieving velvety skins that will show up to an advantage with our new afternoon and evening frocks. Low-cut evening gowns of satin and velvet, and even the tailored afternoon frocks in smart materials make it necessary for the skin of the arms, back, chest, throat and face to be flawless and smooth.

Here is a simple, but effective, treatment for improving these features. All you will need is a bottle of muscle oil and a jar of nourishing cream, or, if your skin is very oily, an astringent cream or lotion. You will also need a good-sized Turkish bath towel and your cleansing preparations.

MRS. HUNT

Remove all clothing from the upper part of your body, so you can work freely without soiling them in any way. Then cleanse your skin thoroughly before starting the treatment. Rub and pat with a soft towel to remove the excess moisture. Now pour a small amount of muscle oil into the palm of one hand, or take up a bit of softening cream. If your skin is quite dry, and spread it liberally over your throat, shoulders, chest, back and arms. When the cream or oil has been distributed, use brisk patting motions upward and outward over the upper portion of the body.

Continue the patting for ten minutes. Keep the wrists and fingers flexible so you really pat and stimulate rather than pull and drag at your skin. After the patting, dip the bath towel in very warm water and place over your shoulders. As soon as it cools, re-dip and press over your chest, pressing the towel close to the skin so the latter will receive the full benefit of the damp heat.

Next press over your arms and finally dip the towel in hot water, wring out and place shawl-like over your shoulders and back.

Apply a little more nourishing cream or oil, re-dip the towel as soon as it cools, then pin it securely in place and cover with a dry towel so it will hold the heat longer. You next turn your attention to your face and neck, which should have been thoroughly cleansed at the beginning of the beauty treatment.

The massage for the throat and face will be given in tomorrow's column.

Kingsford-Smith's Idea of Making the Trans-Pacific Flight Was to Back Up His Backers

SIR CHARLES KINGSFORD-SMITH decided to make his trans-Pacific flight to justify the faith of his Australian and American backers, who furnished him with a plane that was supposed to compete in the MacRobertson Trophy Race from Melbourne to Melbourne. It was not the Commander's fault that the plane did not arrive in England in time for the race, but he felt he ought to back up his backers. He hit upon the eastward flight from Australia, not only as a spectacular gesture, but also because "it is the quickest way to get the plane back to America and put it on sale."

The intrepid Anzac has long had the habit of making success grow out of failure. Born in Brisbane, he joined the Australian Expeditionary Force when he was 18 and took part in the ill-fated Gallipoli campaign among others. Later he joined the British Air Force, and saw much service over the lines in France and Belgium.

When the fighting was over, he went back to Australia and took

Makeup Tips

QUESTION: "The skin across my back and shoulders is scaly and rough and there are a few large blackheads. I have heard that salt rubs will help soften and clear the skin. Can you tell me how to give myself a salt rub?"—Jo.

First, I would suggest a liberal application of cold cream before you take your nightly tub bath, then a thorough scrubbing with a fairly stiff bath brush and thick soapy lather. Follow this scrubbing with a cold rinse to arouse the circulation. I would suggest a rub with a "salt towel" after your morning shower.

Soak a bath towel in a solution made from a pound of salt and a quart of water. Let the towel dry and then soften it by rubbing between your hands. After your shower, remove the moisture with an ordinary bath towel and then give yourself a vigorous rub with the salt towel.

QUESTION: "I have always had rather mousey hair that started to turn gray early, so for the last ten years, I have had it hennaed. Now since my hair is nearly white I have decided to be natural as soon as the hennaed portion grows out, which will not be long now. My problem is my make-up. The rouge and lipstick that I have been using for so long suddenly seems yellowish and much too bright. What color would you suggest?"—Mrs. F. M.

I would suggest first that you try a clear red rouge and lipstick, applied lightly and blended carefully into a cream foundation. If this seems too vivid then try a medium-rose shade of rouge and lipstick. Most white-tinted women can wear the soft rose shades becomingly. Avoid dark shades and all shades with a strong suggestion of orange.

Common Potato Offers Chance
To Make Many Unique Dishes

By JUDITH WILSON

WE usually think of potatoes as being the easiest cooked of all the vegetables, yet it requires a great deal of skill to bring to the table a dish of fluffy, snowy mashed potatoes or delicious, nicely baked potatoes. First you choose your potatoes—more or less common ones for boiling, but the large, even varieties for baking.

The most important thing to remember in cooking potatoes is that they should be served freshly-cooked, hot and flavorful. Nothing so disheartening as soggy, half-cooked, discolored potatoes that have waited for the balance of the meal.

Since potatoes are served boiled so often, and since many recipes call for cooked potatoes, you should know how to boil them properly. For boiling the potatoes may be peeled or unpeeled. In the latter case, scrub small, even-sized potatoes and boil in just enough water to cover until they are tender, then drain and hold them over the heat for a minute or two to dry them out slightly and make them fine-textured and mealy. If the potatoes are peeled when you cook them, drain and save the liquid for soup or gravy so none of the valuable minerals are lost.

Salt When Half Done
Salt your potatoes when they are half done. Potatoes boiled in their jackets are usually peeled, buttered and sprinkled with paprika or finely chopped parsley and served in a hot vegetable dish.

For perfect mashed potatoes, peel medium-sized potatoes and drop into a pan of boiling water. Cook until tender, then drain and shake over a low flame until they are dry and flaky. Mash until smooth, taste and add salt if necessary, a generous sized lump of butter or margarine and then hot milk, enough to make the potatoes fluffy, but not too soft to stand up well. Now beat the potatoes vigorously until they are snowy white. Pile into a hot vegetable dish and put two or three lumps of butter on top. Sprinkle with paprika and garnish with parsley.

Corned Potatoes
Corned potatoes are delicious and out of the ordinary. Boil sufficient potatoes in their jackets for the number to be served, peel and cut into small pieces as for hashed potatoes. Mix with half the quantity of canned whole kernel corn and two small onions, chopped very fine. Sauté the mixture in butter until light brown, adding a little finely chopped parsley. Serve the potatoes in individual scallop dishes or small ramekins.

Potato Muffins
Have you heard of potato muffins? You are bound to like these fluffy raised muffins. Boil two small potatoes and put through a ricer. Scald one cup milk and cool to lukewarm. Add a cake of compressed yeast to the milk and when dissolved, add two teaspoons salt, a tablespoon sugar, two tablespoons melted shortening, the potatoes, two well-beaten eggs and four cups flour. Mix as stiff as possible with a spoon. Let stand five hours in a warm place. Turn onto a floured board. Roll out to one-half inch thick and cut with a biscuit cutter. Place on buttered pans, brush the muffins with melted butter and let stand two hours. Bake for ten minutes in a hot oven.

Distinctive Potato Salad
Potato salad made according to this recipe is unusual. Boil six medium-sized potatoes in their skins, peel and dice. Add a finely chopped onion, the sliced whites of six hard-cooked eggs and a cucumber cut into dice. Toss together and serve with a dressing made of one cup mayonnaise or cooked dressing combined with two-thirds cup of whipped cream. Serve on a bed of crisp lettuce and garnish with sliced egg yolks. Top with parsley. One cup celery may be substituted for the cucumber.

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "I have been invited to an evening sports party by a boy friend. Will you tell me if this outfit will be proper? A green silk crepe sport dress with white satin bodice, black felt hat with veil, caracul cape that just covers my shoulders, black suede shoes and black gloves and purse and earrings."—D. F.

ANSWER: The dress described seems to be quite appropriate and so are the black suede shoes and black gloves and purse. As for the veil on the black hat, remove it for the occasion, a veil being somewhat superfluous for indoor wear besides being unsuitable for sports wear. If the earrings referred to are the button kind, a type frequently worn with sports clothes, they may be worn; but if they are the least bit dressy, don't include them in your costume. Also, if you have a sports coat, wear it or carry it over your arm in preference to the caracul cape.

QUESTION: "Is it up to the bridegroom to choose the ushers for his wedding?"—H. B.

ANSWER: As a rule the young couple choose the ushers from among their friends and relatives. They may be either the bridegroom's friends or the bride's.

You and Your Child

RESPONSIBILITY OF OWNING DOG
GOOD FOR CHILD

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

RALPH would like to own a dog, but his mother won't have one in the house. From time to time he brings home a stray dog to feed. When mother asks him, "Where did you get it?" he tells the truth: "It followed me home." Mother is skeptical. She thinks it strange that dogs always are following him. But it isn't strange at all, as Ralph thinks nothing of crossing the street to pet a dog, and if he sees one off in the distance he whistles.

This boy ought to have a dog. Some day soon I hope his mother will say, "If you bathe that fellow, you may keep him here for a few days. I have never cared much for dogs, but then it is never too late to learn." Ralph would certainly put forth every effort to see that the dog does not get into mother's way or give her any unnecessary trouble.

A mother who is not fond of dogs, or animals generally, ought to give herself a chance to get used to them for the child's sake as well as her own. If ever a parent could prove that she does not mind going out of her way for her child's well being, she can. Here is a chance to do something really constructive for the child and benefit from the experience herself.

For a child the experience of having a pet is both necessary and ennobling. He himself is a dependent. But give him a pet and he has a dependent. Now he can be useful; now he can share with and care for something weaker than himself.

On the mother's side of the problem may be the question of animals. Such a parent imagines that nothing under the sun can change her attitude toward having a pet in the house. But she feels this way only because she is not taking her child's needs as seriously as her own comfort.

A child over seven is past the mauling and tail-pulling stage and ready to own a dog or cat. He needs something to protect and love, something to call his own.

IRENE DUNNE GOES CALLING

A fall cocktail gown in black moire with hat and bag to match worn by Irene Dunne, film star, is the highest of the fashions seen in Hollywood this season. The one neck is finished with a tiny white ruffing and the same treatment is used at the wrist. The dress is tightly moulded to the figure and so narrow is the silhouette that the skirt is slashed in front to a depth of six inches to allow walking room.

WOMEN

A Single Girl Complains Because Married Workers Take Superior Attitude

SOME slight confusion seems to exist in the mind of the writer of today's letter as to what constitutes the necessary qualifications for success in business. It's something more than the ability to capture a husband and something more than a looking attractive to the eye. Married women retain their jobs independently of either asset.

and single ones are handicapped because of being single. The jealousy which is reported to exist between the two factions under discussion is just the usual kind that crops up between women, and I do not think it can be blamed on marriage.

"My dear Mrs. Martin: I work for a large utility company among many girls. About 40 per cent of these girls are married and have no intention of giving up their positions. The majority of them, because of their seniority, are holding the best jobs. Now this is what I am so terribly confused about. Many arguments come up between the married women and the single ones on the pros and cons of married women working.

"A single girl voices an opinion to the effect that she does not think it is right, or that she would not care to continue working after she married, the one cry from the married women is that single girls are jealous. Please tell me why they think this—alot that the married ones are more intelligent because they have the best jobs. Isn't this conflict on the part of the married women to think that they alone are attractive to men and that they have all the intelligence? Some of these girls dress not as well as the single girls, and therefore are not as attractive to the eye.

"Why is it the single girls haven't the right to their opinion on the subject the same as the married women without being accused of being jealous? I want to understand. Please explain their reasoning. Twenty-four."

I am afraid I can't explain it. I am afraid it is dignified as reasoning. Has it ever occurred to you that these women, married or single, feel so superior and who accuse the unmarried ones of being jealous are in reality the jealous ones? Jealous of your freedom and your chances of marrying a man with money. While many married women work because they love their work, all of them are not actuated by this motive, I assure you. Those who work because they must are inclined to be resentful of their positions.

The average employer isn't interested in the private lives of his efficient workers. And I am quite sure he would not admit that marriage made one a more efficient office worker. It might steady a girl who was inclined to be carried away by the attentions of men, but I am not so sure it would be relied on to do even that were the girl the frivolous type.

Certainly you, as a single woman, have a right to voice your opinion. I think you are taking the whole situation too seriously, and that you should apply the intelligence you have to getting some of the superior posts. And I don't believe you will find a marriage certificate will fit you for it, or help you get it.

New Hope for Farmer

The desire on the part of the American woman to own beautiful and luxurious furs has provided the American farmer with an important new cash crop, furs, which when all else failed him during the depression, brought in money to replenish his pocketbook, according to fur experts.

Fur market records show that in the two months of December, 1933 and January, 1934, when 40,000 mink skins were sold at the great auctions in the United States, 15,000 of these, the best of the lot, were farm-bred skins.

MAVERICKS IN UNDERDOG ROLE IN TEXARKANA

Herd Is Set for Comeback Battle Against Fast Aggregation

Marshall High School's Mavericks will be on the short end of all calculations when the big red team invades Texarkana for a District 10 clash Friday afternoon with the Texans.

Comparative dope places the Mavs in the role of underdogs. Longview defeated Texarkana 19 to 0, and later walloped Marshall 26 to 0. The Herd should be defeated by two touchdowns in Texarkana, if the team turns out the same brand of football exhibited last week in Longview.

But the Mavericks will be fighting for an outside chance to remain in the race for district honors, and their comeback spirit is reflected in the manner in which the team has been going through the mill this week. The Red and White warriors are not conceding anything, and are prepared to go at full speed in Texarkana.

The same sort of spirit is evident among students and other local supporters. A total of 250 railroad tickets were pledged within a few hours after announcement was made that a special train would be operated to Texarkana. 300 agreed to ride the train.

Coach J. E. Willis and his assistant, Paul Street, had the Mavs working on full-speed scrimmage Wednesday. A light workout Thursday ends the training schedule. There will be no hospital list, thus sending the Mavericks to Texarkana at full strength for their third conference battle of the season.

The district feature is scheduled Monday in Tyler, where the Lions engage Longview. A victory by Tyler would place Marshall back into the thick of the fight, provided the Mavs upset the Texarkana bandwagon. It is with this thought in mind that the Marshall athletes will entrain Friday at noon for the comeback test against the Texans.

BURLESQUES FEATURE ART SHOW—Burlesques on paintings of the old masters featured the "Fakers' Show" of the Detroit Seaboard Club. "Henry V Eight" is the title of this painting that attracted much attention. With Charles Laughlin in his familiar role is Henry Ford with his feet on pedals and headlights on his chair. The background imitates Diego Rivera's much disputed murals showing activity in the Ford plant.

Today's Sports Parade

New York, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—While the effete east and precedent-bound western conferences gesture toward regulations prohibiting their teams from participating in post-season football games, Huey Kingfish Long goes through his monkey-shines and quite possibly will hold Louisiana State University right into California's annual New Year's Day Rose Bowl classic.

About the only thing the Louisiana Kingfish hasn't claimed for the L. S. U. team he has adopted and mascot is a place in the big coast fixture, but he'll probably get around to that yet.

The Kingfish mascot, it might be said, combines all the qualities of other noted mascots—the Army mule, the Navy goat and the rest—and besides has more color.

It happens this year that Stanford or Washington is likely to be the Pacific Coast choice to appear against the eastern team in the big battle at Pasadena, and neither Stanford nor Washington is particularly hot in Southern California.

So the answer to that one is that the Pasadena Rose Bowlers are confronted by the task of digging up an opponent for the vest that will pack them in. Huey and his antics seem to be made to order for the occasion.

Princeton, it might be pointed out again for the benefit of those who take their football hit and miss, already has decided not to participate in the post-season game, even if invited. Minnesota would be thwarted by a Big Ten regulation.

Syracuse and Michigan State, also among the candidates, will go about the business of eliminating one or the other this week-end when they meet. Alabama and Tulane have been recent visitors to the coast and probably would not be invited even if they should finish the season on top.

They want new dash and color and fire on the coast this time, and Huey is southern agent for that stuff.

If the Louisiana players themselves can't measure up—considering that they've been tied twice—their mascot makes up the defi-

SATIRICAL CAMPAIGN REPORT GIVES OHIO MERRY MOMENTS

By HENRY B. BENSON

United Press Staff Correspondent

Cleveland, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Raymond J. Jeffreys, Cleveland, free lance writer, wasn't nominated for congressman-at-large in the recent Ohio primary, but he can now be nominated as new national champion of campaign report satire.

When Jeffreys filed his "report" of expenditures with the secretary of state, he went into such hilarious detail that copies of his statement were later printed and scattered statewide.

Jeffreys found it unnecessary to kiss any babies, but confesses he held two while their mothers campaigned for him. He picked up two other babies, but picked up two girls on the highway and 71 hoboes.

No chances to kiss widows came Jeffreys' way. During his entire circuit, he never hit the hay, but he did hit the front seat of his car 17 nights, the back seat five times (while someone else drove); park benches, two nights.

He admits he wore out his car, lost the nomination by 55,000 votes, but "made thousands of wonderful friends and had lots of fun."

Further he:

Drew designs on a quilt for a Ladies' Aid Society.

Ran out of gas 19 times.

Almost lost his wife.

Here's what he "reported" in full as the "gospel truth":

"I was donated $300, worth of radio time, $40 worth of newspaper 'mats,' and $50 in cash by friends; spent $601.94 for travel, postage, printing and other expenses; took seven and one-half months of time from my business; slept 17 nights in my car while parked on the public squares of various Ohio towns."

"Drove all night six times, to keep engagements the following days; slept on the back seat five nights while someone else drove my car; slept on a park bench two nights; ran out of gas 19 times; carried gasoline in a can a total of 23 and three-quarter miles; wore out my car."

"Was towed in twice, blew out seven tires, burned out a battery and broke a piston rod; drove over 40,000 miles of Ohio highways; picked up 71 hoboes and two girls;

thumbed my way 1,752 miles; was broke most of the time."

"Missed six engagements because I didn't have the money to get there; held two babies while their mothers campaigned for me; didn't have one chance to kiss a widow; drank 371 cups of rotten coffee; ate 134 terrible meals; missed 29 meals."

"Shook hands with more than 20,000 people; made over 500 talks; drew designs on a quilt for a Ladies' Aid Society; talked enough to make in print 1,000 columns."

"Was chased by dogs twice and a bull once; lost 13 pounds in weight, lost 1,268 hours of sleep and almost lost my wife; was promised enough votes to win the presidency and lost the nomination by 55,000 votes—but I made thousands of wonderful friends and had lots of fun."

SEATTLE PLANS VARIETY OF RARE PHEASANTS

Seattle, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Pheasants of rare varieties soon will inhabit the Skagit river wilderness, from which the Seattle municipal power supply comes.

Fourteen ring-necked pheasants, three pair of Golden, three of Silver, two of Reeves and two of Mulant, have been obtained. The birds will be penned near the Diablo power plant, their offsprings released in the woods nearby.

M. H. S. CAGERS BEAT HARLETON

The High School Mavericks won from the Harleton All-Stars 24-22 last night in a basketball game in the high school gym. Harleton was leading at the half 9-8. When the Mavericks got in front, they were never behind again during the game.

L. W. Jones, Maverick forward, was the high scorer with 11 points and Wilson, a guard, next with 9. Harleton's high scorers were Knox, D. and Oney, 7. Street for the high school was the outstanding defensive player on the floor. The line-ups: Harleton—Oney and Weatherby, forwards; Smith, center; Taylor and C. Jones, guards; Knox, substitute. Mavericks—G. Jones and L. W. Jones, forwards; Street, center; Wilson and Bryan, guards.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 8. (U.P.)—When life grows dull for a couple of chicken snakes in the state museum here they amuse themselves by trying to swallow each other.

Recently the smaller snake, something over six feet long, managed to swallow his cellmate's head, neck, and shoulders—about two feet all told. The victim finally hooked his tail in the wire walls of their cage, and pulled himself out.

BLIND FLYING TO CONQUER FLIER'S ENEMY

Safe Landings in Fog Now Seem Assured By Experiments

Washington, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Elimination of the aviator's greatest enemy—fog—is foreseen by the Bureau of Air Commerce after completion of tests showing the practicability of adapting blind flying instruments, to commercial transports.

Eugene L. Vidal, director of the bureau has tested conclusively multi-motored transports' operation while using blind flying devices, and has made tentative plans for installation of equipment along a transcontinental air route for commercial service tests.

Army System Used.—The U. S. Army air corps' blind flying system was used throughout the tests. More than 150 unassisted, "hooded" landings with a tri-motored transport-plane have been made by Bureau pilots using this system. In each test flight the pilot sat in the cockpit completely covered by a hood which prevented him from seeing outside the plane, forcing him to rely entirely on the instruments to land his craft.

The most important element in blind landing, according to the department, is the radio compass.

Operations Explained.—Chester A. Snow, Jr., in charge of these tests for the bureau of air commerce explains the operation of the compass as follows: "The radio compass operates in conjunction with any broadcasting station within its power range, enabling the pilot to fly directly toward the transmitter from any direction. The ground equipment of the army air corps blind landing system consists of two landing transmitters. Each is a low powered broadcasting station, compactly mounted on a small automobile truck.

"In addition, each truck is equipped with a small secondary transmitter which, operating in conjunction with another instrument on the plane's instrument board, causes a light to flash as the airplane passes the ground station."

By means of these two small transmitters an experienced pilot is able to bring his plane safely to the ground.

NRA OFFICIALS SENT TO DALLAS TO PROBE BAKE SHOP PRICE WAR

Washington, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—The NRA today started a national survey of code administration problems by sending administration deputies to confer with industry members and code authority groups in fifteen large population centers. Deputies Irwin S. Moise, Robert K. Straus, and G. Defreest Lerner have been named to attend conferences in Dallas, Birmingham, Atlanta, Nashville, New Orleans, Milwaukee, Des Moines, Omaha, Chicago, Cleveland, Baltimore, Providence, Concord, Buffalo and Pittsburgh.

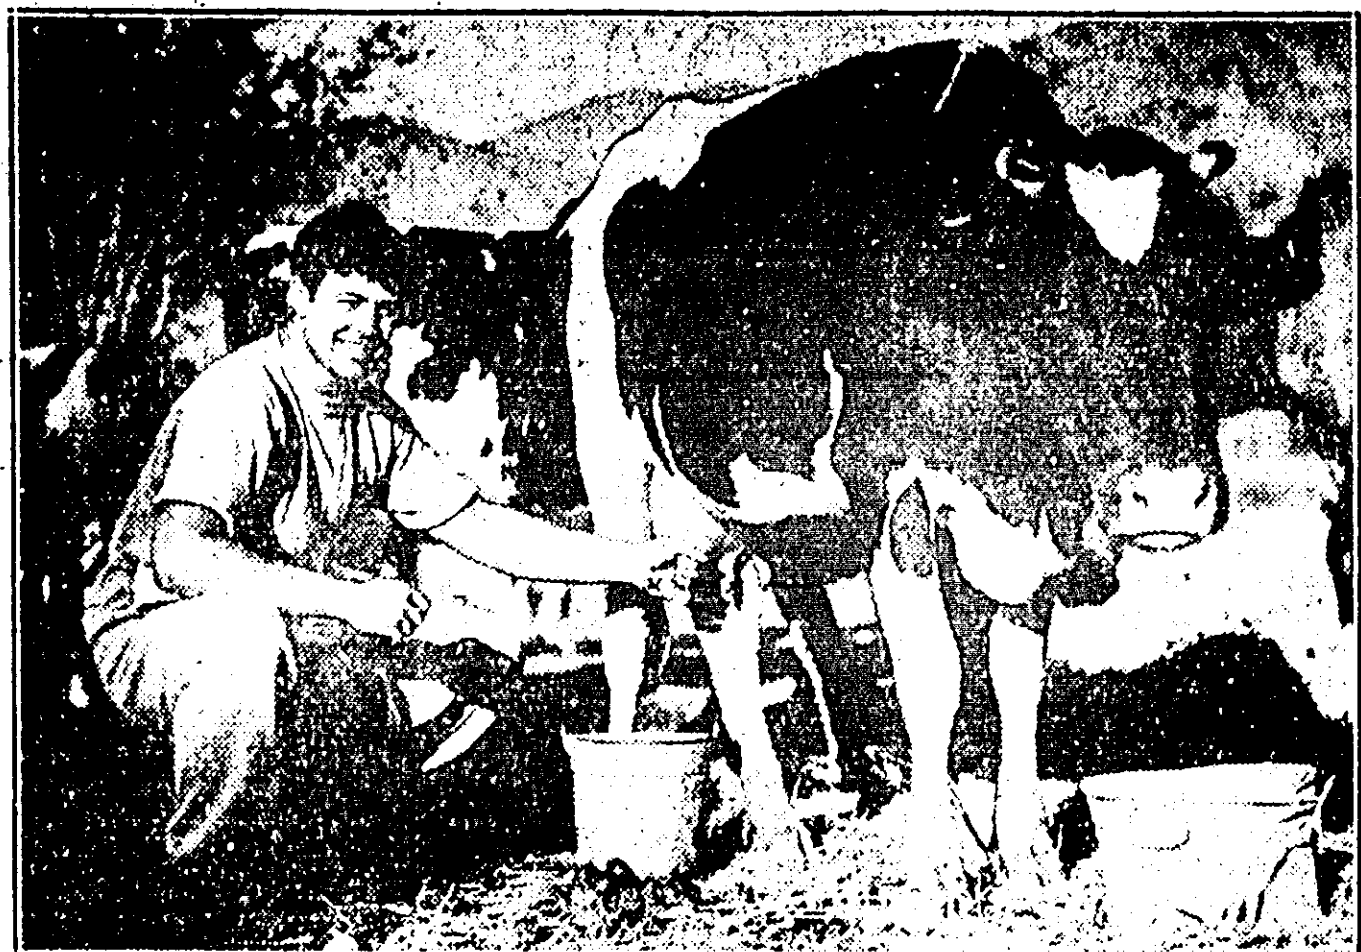

Deputy Administrator Moise will be in Texas next week to meet with code authorities and industry members at Dallas, and to investigate claims that a competitive price war endangers the bakery code. An attempt to formulate an agreement on price failed, according to state NRA officials, and bread is reported being sold below production cost in northern Texas.

If existing conditions are found by Deputy Moise to justify declaring a price emergency, an authorized in the bakery code, NRA will do so, and hold public hearings to determine the lowest reasonable costs which may be established for minimum sales prices.

RAISING FUNDS FOR PLANE

Moscow (U.P.)—Another airplane comparable in size to the giant "Maxim Gorky" will be built by the Soviet Union if a campaign for funds among workers of the Far East is successful. Thus far 500,000 roubles have been raised. The new plane, if built, will be called the "Vasily Blucher" in honor of the commander of Russia's Far Eastern army.

More than a million pounds of rayon is being shipped every month from Germany.

DEMPSEY'S PROTEGE—Not the cow, of course; but the young man. He is Bill Hoodigan, who the widely known Jack Dempsey is a new heavyweight boxing threat. High up in the mountain paradise of Saugus, Cal., in training quarters, equipped with tennis courts, riding horses, swimming pool, and representing an investment of $200,000, Hoodigan works out with Jerry the Greek.

ITALY'S KING—A new portrait of King Victor Emanuel III, of Italy, made recently when the King consented to pose for his portrait for the first time in many years. The King, of the House of Savoy, who came to the throne in 1900, is now 65 years old, and is a great-grandfather.

GIRLS WITHOUT MEN by NELLY GRAF

Lark Ewing, daughter of a millionaire, breaks her engagement to Bob Thaxton because she has seen so many unhappy marriages. She leaves home and joins a club, the Bachelorettes, the object of which is independence from men. But she is dismayed when Bob turns to Gail Stickler, who has long been angling for him, she is only partially consoled by the attention of Ken Eward. She sees Bob at a wedding and wants to talk to him, but he snubs her. Bitterly humiliated, she goes outside the house to wander about the grounds in the darkness. A moment later, Bob comes out. Lark hides behind the corner of the summer house.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"Bob," Lark's voice was the merest whisper. Bob paused, as though he might have heard. Lark's heart hammered painfully. He did not have an overcoat. That was foolish. He'd catch cold. She ought to tell him to get his coat. She would. But his face as she had spoken to him a while ago came before her. That blank stare. His direct cut before all her old friends. No, she would never speak to him again.

"Speak to him," urged a voice within her, but Lark shrank back deeper into the shadows, her lips pressed tighter together. She must not speak. She couldn't stand to have him snub her again. But her fingers ached to reach out and touch his sleeve. Oh, she was a fool!

Bob turned, and moved away in the direction he had come. Lark waited tensely until his figure was swallowed in the flake-spangled darkness. Then she slumped against the wall of the summer house. "Bob," she whispered brokenly.

In a few minutes, she started listlessly down the path. This would bring her out on the avenue, where she could catch a street car or hail a taxi. She ought to go back into the house for the reception. Elna would be wondering what had become of her. And Betty would be searching for her. But Bob... Bob and that crowd which had snubbed her would be glad if she wasn't there.

No, she couldn't go back. She never wanted to see Bob again. She would go home to the Club and spend the evening studying a book she had secured from the library—a book on the business in which she now worked.

But Lark did not study. Back in her room, she opened the book, but the words danced before her. Bob's face! So cold and indifferent.

By and by, she closed the book. She got up and moved about restlessly. Oh, what was there for a girl to do who was nervous and unhappy?

Suddenly, she stood still. Ken Eward. She'd call Ken. She had been treating him badly lately—making up excuses to keep from having dates with him.

When his voice came over the wire, she said plaintively, "Ken, I'm lonely. Let's go places. How about the Golden Lantern?"

The Golden Lantern was a questionable night club. But Lark didn't care. From now on she didn't care what happened. She would go every place with Ken. She would have a good time. She would forget Bob Thaxton. She must forget him. She must go on living, and learn to live without Bob.

It didn't take Elna, Patterson, who was now Lark's roommate, long to notice the change in Lark. She was out every night now with Ken. And there was a new glitter

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of bile daily into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Get bile up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel drowsy and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. Great drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

COTTON Notes

New York, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—The foreign situation continues to disturb speculative cotton sentiment, especially the political uncertainty in France.

Private crop estimates average 8,500,000 bales, compared with 9,443,000 bales in the last report.

Cotton prices have been helped by bullishness derived from the election returns, which point toward inflation.

Domestic mill consumption for August and September was the smallest for that period in almost 25 years, according to the bureau of agricultural economics.

INDEPENDENT REFINERS QUICK TO LINE UP FOR GASOLINE BUYING PLAN

Tyler, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Alignment of all East Texas refiners behind the gasoline purchase plan was expected today.

Jules Constantine, president of the Independent Refiners' Association of East Texas, said they probably would adhere to the plan today.

Meanwhile oil administration officials in Texas set up machinery for making the plan operative. W. F. Moore of the state division of the planning and coordinating committee was named dispatcher for Dallas under the plan.

H. C. Hilderbrandt, chairman of the Fort Worth stabilization committee, was appointed to the same post for Fort Worth. W. B. Rew, chairman of the state stabilization committee, went to Houston to appoint a dispatcher there.

F. H. Jordan of Dallas will act

FROG ELUDES SEARCHERS

Hoquiam, Wash. (U.P.)—Hoquiam's city hall frog, embedded somewhere in the building wall, still is alive. He started croaking again when furnaces were started. His croaking made conversation difficult in the city clerk's office. The building wall was opened twice in the search for him.

WOODPILE CUTS POPULARITY—Walworth, Wis. (U.P.)—It is believed that henceforth Walworth, formerly a popular stopover for tramps, will be passed up more frequently than as of yore. The village marshal has installed a woodpile near the "transient hotel" and all guests must work.

The Search For VALUE

THE gold or silver miner does much work before his mine is on a paying basis. That's "development work." He carries on in the hope that soon he will come to the pay-streak and will have his reward.

Compare this miner to your reading of the advertisements. Not everything you read is of vital interest to you at the moment. But many thousands of others are reading. One finds a well-recommended suit or overcoat at an attractive price. That's a pay-streak for him. Another rejoices to find a sales announcement of coal, or coke, or furniture. Another wants the latest automobile or radio, and is mightily pleased to find the advertisement that tells all about it.

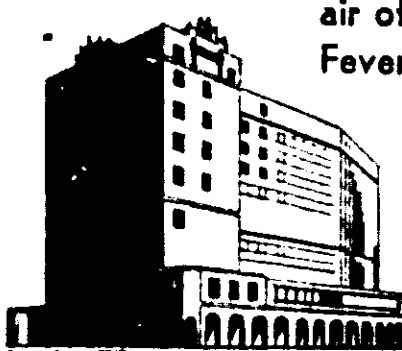

The advertisements carried in this newspaper are helpful in the business of living. They tell of equipment, appliances, things for personal and household needs. Take note of the things you now have in regular use. What first called them to your attention? It's likely that you first read about them in an advertisement. Other good values await your choosing in the advertisements in this issue.

"DISCOVERER" OF ROOSEVELT USES FANCY ORATORY TO HIT REPUBLICAN PARTY IN CHEEK

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—The man who claims he discovered Franklin D. Roosevelt, wound up today and let the Republicans have it right on the jaw with some fancy words that put all previous election oratory in moth balls for the winter.

Mr. Joseph Leib contends that long, long ago he peered into a crystal ball and saw that Mr. Roosevelt was headed straight for the White House. So he rushed right out, he says, and organized the first "Roosevelt for President Club" in St. Joseph County, Indiana.

It involved a lot of work, but now that the Democrats are over the hill, Mr. Leib's duties are confined to issuing statements every two years. As a statement-issuer Mr. Leib is top hole. He got off to a rather prosaic start today, but warmed up fast and finished 12 adjectives and a prepositional clause ahead of all rivals.

"President Roosevelt," he said, "received an exulting and palpitating triumph. As the mad pages of the political drama pour forth from the returns of the national election, one can see democracy celebrating a victory of intelligent liberalism and freedom, no longer satisfied by platitudinous nonsense, but substituted by action, wisdom and prudence."

Mr. Leib belongs to the Jack Dempsey school of oratory — once he has you on the ropes he keeps right on slugging.

"Under Mr. Roosevelt's leadership," he continued, "America has again established a flourishing society for progressive advancement, undeteriorated by episodes of vengeful tactics by assiduous rivals."

"The nation has rewarded the president of the United States with confidence and respect in recognition of his great public spirit, congenial and homogeneous with the mandate and prescription desired by the masses, thereby upholding him in the eye of the world as the champion of the forgotten man."

With that, Mr. Leib announced he was through until 1936, and we busied ourselves assiduously to convey to the receptive electorate the palpitating tidings entrusted to us by the Christopher Columbus of the champion of the forgotten man.

DYSENTERY EPIDEMIC PROBED IN FT. WORTH

Fort Worth, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—City Sanitary Engineer W. N. Dashiell today conducted tests of food, milk and drinking water sources here in an effort to trace the cause of more than 200 cases of an unidentified form of dysentery.

Dashiell explained that the disease, different from amoebic dysentery, which broke out in Chicago during the World Fair last year, is seldom fatal to adults. He believed, however, that it may have been responsible for the increase in infant mortality here last month.

Infant deaths were double the number in September. Of the 31 who died, 15 had intestinal disorders, Dashiell said.

PUPILS FOUND QUEER ANSWERS

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Questions asked first grade pupils in a reading aptitude test here recently produced some amusing answers.

"What did Cinderella lose at the ball?" the teacher asked. The pupil looked puzzled a moment and then said eagerly, "I know, she lost a bat."

Another boy was asked what baby dogs are called. After deep thought he responded, "Hamburgers," he said.

The teacher was "forced to wonder if a lad of such tender years could be guilty of cynicism when asked to reply to the question of where pork came from. The boy grinned widely. "From the courthouse," he said.

When asked in what game a home run is made one small boy said vaguely, "I run this way and I run that way, but I don't run home."

The question "who is president of the United States?" proved difficult for many of the pupils, but one boy answered without hesitation, "Washington."

DEPOSED WACO MAYOR CLINGING TO OFFICE

Waco, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—Mayor Carl Mason, recalled Oct. 6, today reiterated his determination to hang on to his office until the courts rule on his right to it. Mason refused to follow suit of Commissioner J. L. Rollins, recalled at the same time, who resigned yesterday. Rollins in a published statement denounced the mayor and blamed him for the commission's failure to dismiss certain city officials and reorganize the government.

U. S. TIRES PRAISED BY MARSHALL DEALER

The U. S. Royal is by far the best engineered tire ever produced by the U. S. Rubber Co., according to Rex Brown, 602 E. Houston St., local U. S. tire dealer.

"The Royal is triple tempered," said Mr. Brown. "It is tempered for more miles, greater safety, and trouble-free travel. It offers greater tire satisfaction. The value of a tire is not wrapped up in any one product feature. The amount of rubber in a tire tread does not in itself necessarily measure tire value. The construction of the body or any one or more of its plies does not alone provide safety. Beads and breakers are necessary parts of a tire, but again, they alone are not all important."

"It is an established fact that to reach the greatest tire value all of the essential parts of a tire must be carefully engineered and associated one with the other so that each performs its separate function until the tire has given its last safe mile. Because the U. S. Royal has been engineered precisely in this manner, and because it has successfully withstood millions of miles of laboratory and road tests, I feel confident in saying that it is by far the best tire ever built."

SINCLAIR'S BIG VOTE TO FORCE LIBERALIZED CALIFORNIA POLITICS

San Francisco, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—A drive to liberalize politics of the California Republican party brewed today as conservatives breathed easier after the defeat of Upton Sinclair, Socialist turned Democrat, who came closer than they thought he would to victory in Tuesday's gubernatorial election.

Frank Merriam, conservative Republican incumbent, won a plurality that probably will reach 225,000 when the few scattered precincts not yet reported are counted. But cheering to liberals who didn't want to go as far to the left as Sinclair wished and ominous to conservatives who wish no change at all, was the total of votes cast for Sinclair and his radical EPIC plan to end poverty. He received approximately 800,000 votes, indicating that many Californians desire a drastic change in governmental policy.

Merriam, during his campaign, pledged liberal policies in dealing with unemployment, relief, and social legislation. Resting at his home at Long Beach today, he reaffirmed his intention of launching a program when the legislature convenes in January to meet "present demands." His supporters said he was aware of the meaning of the large vote cast for his rival. Sinclair announced that despite his defeat the EPIC organization will be continued and extended over the entire Pacific Coast.

Paris, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Pierre-Etienne Flandin, 45, the Republic's youngest premier, today took up the task of leading the nation through one of its gravest peacetime periods as head of a new salvation government.

He did so under the coldly watchful eyes of millions of people who demand government without party politics, and who seemed ready to turn into the streets in riot if necessary to enforce their demand.

There were heavy police and republican guard patrols in the central districts of Paris but the city was quiet.

Flandin and 71-year-old Gaston Doumergue, whom he replaced, and who was a colonial judge in Indo-China the year in which he was born, alike appealed to the nation to be calm.

The new premier, 6 feet 6 inches tall, the nation's largest as he is its youngest political leader, called a meeting of his cabinet for 5 p. m. (noon EST). He announced he would face the chamber of deputies Tuesday to make his ministry.

SCOUR MOUNTAIN FOR LOST PLANE

Beacon, N. Y., Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Volunteer searching parties plodded through rough mountain country today seeking an unidentified airplane which police were informed had crashed on Beacon mountain.

The reports to police were by a woman who said she heard the plane's motor cease and believed it fell, and by a man who reported that he saw the plane fall.

First attempts to locate the plane failed. Local officials indicated that reports of the crash had not been definitely confirmed.

Information supplementing first reports of the crash, they said, indicated the plane had flown very low over Mt. Beacon, and possibly had landed or crashed on the opposite side. Police said they would search both sides of the 1,500 foot peak.

Bank Bandits Kidnap Official of Money House and Two Women

Norfolk, Neb., Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Three bandits held officials of the De Lay National Bank hostage for several hours early today and when the time lock opened the vault doors they took $23,000 and escaped.

The bandits visited the home of Paul Zutz, cashier, at midnight and asked for the cashier. Informing Zutz was out of town, the gang took Mrs. Zutz to the home of O. W. Gladen, assistant cashier. They seized Gladen and his wife and held the three prisoners until 7 a. m.

At that hour they took Gladen to the bank and forced him to open the bank doors. This done, one of the bandits struck Gladen over the head with a pistol. As bank employees came to work, the bandits confronted them with guns and forced them to wait until 9 a. m. when the time locks opened the vault doors. Five persons were held at the bank in addition to the two women held at the Gladen home.

When the vaults opened, the bandits scooped up the cash and fled.

Medford, Ore., Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Clara Feldman, who was said to have been the wife of Albert Bates, one of the convicted kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, was held under arrest here today after she fled from a trap laid for her by Department of Justice agents.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 9. (U.P.)—A fresh train of the $20 bank notes paid in the $250,000 ransom of Charles Urschel led federal investigators today to announce further arrests were imminent in one of the nation's outstanding kidnapping cases.

With 17 persons already captured as alleged members of the gang which seized and held the Oklahoma city millionaire in July last year the Department of Justice Agents expect to clean up the case through new disclosures uncovered in three Oregon cities.

Washington, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Progressive Republicans are maneuvering for control of the party which has been led since 1908 by a masterful conservative faction. After the storm of Democratic ballots Tuesday there sounded from scattered Republican leaders a call for party reorganization.

Translated from words to action that means, first, an effort next January to displace Rep. Bertrand Snell as Republican leader in the House.

The next step in party reorganization as plotted by the progressives is removal of Henry P. Fletcher as chairman of the Republican National Committee. Progressives resented his election this year.

Hurry to Washington yesterday, Sen. William E. Borah (R.) Idaho, paused between trains to proclaim that the Republican party must re-organize or die. Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania put the proposition this way:

"The Republican party must go progressive or stay busy."

Sen. James Couzens (R) Michigan, an independent, told an audience as Tuesday's ballots were being counted that partisanship should be abandoned to enable all to support President Roosevelt.

The foregoing represent the more extreme viewpoints expressed so far. Sen. Daniel Hastings (R) Delaware, who was co-chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, saw the election as a probably high point of popular sympathy for what he regards as nationally destructive policies.

Fort Worth, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Doyle Crawley, 36, Dallas refinery worker, was released here today by two gunmen, who, Crawley said, abducted him in Dallas as he drove to work this morning and robbed him of $20.

Crawley said two men boarded his automobile at a Dallas street intersection when he stopped for a red light. One of the bandits prodded him with a pistol and told him to drive toward Fort Worth. They threatened to kill him if he balked, Crawley said.

The two men released him on the Jacksboro highway west of here, he told police, leaving him in his automobile. He believed the men were picked up by another automobile.

ADVANCES WITHDRAWN.

BITTER WARFARE BREAKS OUT
AMONG TEXAS RACE TRACK FANS

Austin, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Race track fans are at bitter warfare among themselves.

Rep. Pat Dwyer of San Antonio, who boasts that he presented the original bill to legalize the return of race track betting to Texas, is leading the assault on the present pari-mutuel system.

He says the betting public is not getting a fair deal. He offered an amendment to the centennial tax bill which would require every track to put in use a "totalizer."

This, he explained, is an automatic device that records the amounts of bets and assures the better his proper share of winnings.

At one track Dwyer said the total amount wagered was "divided with a stick." "This much for the state," he said, in dictating a small

OF VOTE BUYING

Interior Secretary Attacks Critics Who Claim Ballots 'Bought'

Washington, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and public works administrator, last night struck back vigorously at those who charged during the recent campaign that PWA was playing politics and "buying" votes.

He said that the PWA had approved no project since Oct. 17, three weeks immediately preceding the election. He said the original $3,300,000,000 allotted to PWA had been allocated by Jan. 19, this year, 10 months before the election.

Ickes declared he had not answered the charges earlier because he was unwilling "to run the risk of having anything I might say contribute to the contemptible attempt to pervert a national recovery measure such as PWA into a campaign issue." The campaign food, however, he declared he wanted to "inter these falsehoods—for all time, I hope."

DALLAS HOST TO SIX MEN
UNDER DEATH SENTENCES;
THREE FROM EAST TEXAS

Dallas, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Dallas County's "escape proof" jail from which Harvey Bailey freed himself more than a year ago was the temporary home today of six condemned felons.

Three were brought here last night from other counties for "safe keeping." John B. Willis, 41, former convict convicted at Tyler for kidnapping a young married couple and attacking the bride, was among the nominees for the electric chair.

The others were Grady Warren, 27, also of Tyler, convicted murderer, and J. Pierson Cantrell, 34, convicted in Wood County of robbing and slaying Frank Guy, 68.

Industries Want Guarantee That Objectionable Ideas Will Be Eliminated

Washington, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States today sought to ascertain nationwide business opinion on operations of NRA in a referendum of its membership.

Results of the vote will be transmitted to Congress with recommendations for legislation to replace the recovery act.

A committee of the chamber, appointed to study various phases of NRA, recommended a permanent recovery agency to regulate industry and enforce rules of fair practice.

"Industries have no guarantee that objectionable code features might not be continued," the group reported, "whereas the theory upon which the present law is based is that voluntary agreement should obtain."

"To make certain that this intent is carried out in any future legislation the committee would want assurance that there be no authority for the government to impose codes."

The chamber will ask its members to express opinions on termination of NRA next June, and recommendations for new legislation.

FOUR MORE PWA
LOANS TO TEXAS

Washington, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—The public works administration today announced allotment of $9,836,800 for 85 additional non-federal projects.

The projects will provide approximately 40,000 man-months of direct employment on construction sites in 30 states.

TEXAS WOMEN FLYERS PLAN NEW ATTEMPT TO SET ENDURANCE RECORD

Oklahoma City, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Jean Larene and Mary Owens, Texas women aviators, will make another attempt in about a week to shatter the women's endurance flight record, flying over Oklahoma City, it was announced today.

Mark Kleedon, oil man and sponsor of the flight, said the attempt would be made as soon after Nov. 15 "as the weather will permit."

The women made two unsuccessful attempts at the Chicago world's fair recently, trying to beat the present record of 240 hours in the air. They blamed weather conditions for their failure to set a new record.

Their flight here will be a part of the ceremonies inaugurating Kleedon's acceptance of management of the Curtis-Wright airport and establishment of a factory to manufacture light planes.

Washington, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—The Agricultural Adjustment Administration today set Nov. 24 as the deadline for surrender of surplus Bankhead cotton tax exemptions certificates for sale through the national certificate pool.

Purchases from the pool can be made, however, as long as there is sufficient demand to warrant keeping it open, it was announced.

WEDDING BELLS FOR FILM PAIR—Without any advance notice to their friends in Hollywood, Ginger Rogers, screen star, and Lew Ayres, also a motion-picture headliner, popped into the Los Angeles marriage license bureau and signed their names on the dotted lines. Forthwith the red-headed bride-to-be announced they expected to go to the altar soon. Ayres is the former husband of Lola Lane.

NULLIFICATION OF OLD LOUISIANA

Plan Being Used in Midwest Is Suggested for Carriers in Texas

Fort Worth, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—A proposal of Railroad Commissioner E. O. Thompson that railways carry motor trucks on long hauls as a solution of the railway-truck war found favor among large truck operators here today.

Thompson proposed that on long hauls, which now cost truck operators about 14 cents a mile, that the trucks be loaded on flat cars and taken to their destination where an agent of the truck operator would take charge.

Ed R. Spores, of the Spores Motor Freight Lines, and Don Sanders, head of the Merchants Fast Motor Lines, both said that they believed the plan was a future certainty as part of a plan for co-ordination of transportation service. They pointed out that such service already is being operated out of Chicago and points in the east. Thompson has said that the state railroad commission will seek fulfillment of the plan as the best and most economical service.

FOUR MEN ARE BURNED TO DEATH WHEN BLAZE
DESTROYS WAREHOUSE

Newport News, Va., Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Four men were burned to death in a fire which started last night in a grain elevator of the Chesapeake &amp; Ohio Railroad here and still was burning today.

The dead: J. F. Martin, foreman of the elevator plant; and three inspectors, J. Ellis, Sr., C. B. Seltan and G. E. Thomason.

The $300,000 structure was a complete loss. Accumulated gas was said to have exploded and started the fire.

650 GRID FANS LEAVE MARSHALL
ON TWO SPECIAL TRAINS TODAY

Athletic history was made here Friday when two separate football teams, bound in opposite directions, pulled out of the Texas and Pacific station.

One of the specials carried 450 persons, including the Marshall High School team, band and pep squads, to Texarkana. The high school special departed at 11:15.

The other special carried 200 C. O. M. students, pep squads, band, and other rooters to Jacksonville where College of Marshall engages Lon Morris College tonight. The college special pulled out at 12:30.

New Orleans, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Senator Huey P. Long proposed today to nullify the Louisiana purchase and extend his dictatorship over a vast section of the United States.

Addressing newspapermen who gathered at his Roosevelt hotel headquarters, the Kingfisher voiced the belief that it would be fine to scrap the Louisiana purchase and wipe out the state lines altogether.

"Minnesota by rights is a province of Louisiana," he said. "Mississippi already has annexed herself to us. Now if we can get all the rest of the territory that figured in the Louisiana purchase to come in, we can be one great happy family again."

Someone interrupted to inquire who would rule the vast area. The Kingfisher, slapping himself on the chest, shouted: "I would, of course, who else but me?"

"Those people would like to have a kingfish rule them because I'd make a utopia out of it. Folks up in the gopher state are pretty fine too and we'd get along."

Changing the subject, Long said, "now let's get down to something serious. Footballishly speaking, Louisiana State University whip George Washington Saturday and I'm going to make every player who goes over for a touchdown a colonel on the governor's staff."

"We'll have more colonels in Louisiana than cotton bolls when those boys get through up there."

Assuring his visitors that he was the greatest authority on football in "these here United States," Long ended the conference by giving a demonstration of how Abe Mickay, L. S. U. star, throws passes.

CUTTING'S ELECTION IS BELIEVED TO BE FINAL

Even hundred twenty eight precincts gave Cutting 71,488 and Chavez 60,621.

MOTION TO ADJOURN AT NOON DEFEATED TO SUSTAIN BILL

SOLON WHO OPPOSES RACE HORSES TELLS OF THREAT

Told to "Lay Off" Says Kyle, Who Has Been Fighting Bookies

Austin, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Centennial advocates kept their tax bill alive today in the Texas House of Representatives by defeating a motion to adjourn at noon. The vote was 47 ayes and 75 noes.

The resulting recess for lunch, instead of adjournment, keeps the centennial tax bill before the house.

It was reached in the House shortly before noon, after a Senate bill which had right-of-way had been voted upon.

Representative Henry Kyle's amendments to the centennial tax bill to raise the tax on pari-mutuel bets and admissions to 20 per cent both were affected. An amendment by Rep. Albert Daniels forces payment to the centennial fund of odd cents less than a nickel in distribution of winnings.

Kyle, from San Marcos, who had recently opened a campaign against bootlegging and bookmaking in Austin, notified the House he had been called by telephone last night and threatened less he "laid off." He said he had obtained the number.

TWO NOW DEAD
IN ETEX TRAGEDY

Texarkana, Ark., Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Two actors in a domestic tragedy lay side by side in a tiny eastern Texas cemetery today while a third awaited trial on a charge of murder.

Newest of the graves in the Bassett, Tex., burying ground was that of Mrs. Thomas Crabtree, who died of poison just as her husband's body was being lowered into the earth.

She killed herself, relatives said, because of grief over the death of Crabtree, shot to death Monday night by her first husband, J. B. Parsons.

News of the wife's act reached here today when Mrs. Crabtree's name was called with that of other witnesses in municipal court where Parsons was arraigned.

She was not present. Officers made inquiry among the farmer folk of Bassett, the Crabtrees' former home, and learned of her suicide.

RICE FAVORED
OVER PORKERS
TO TOP CIRCUIT

Standings Expected to Shift
In Middle, But Not at Top or Bottom

Dallas, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Standings of Southwest Conference football teams today were expected to shift in the middle, but remain stationary on both ends as the result of this week's games.

Rice was favored to stay on top of the seven-school list, Baylor University at the bottom. Although the University of Texas and Southern Methodist University were expected to win their games tomorrow, their positions would not be changed.

According to the dope, Texas Christian University, the University of Arkansas and Texas A. & M. College will be involved in the scramble for berths high in conference standings.

Pre-game percentages were: Rice 1,000, Arkansas 833, T. C. U. 867, A. & M. 500, Texas and S. M. U. tied with 250 and Baylor .000.

Conference sports fans expect at least 22 battered and bruised football players to emerge from the Arkansas-Rice homecoming battle at Fayetteville tomorrow.

Rice upset the Razorbacks, 7 to 6, at Houston last season, but the Owls will enter the contest tomorrow as the favorites. Experts declare Arkansas will be forced to display more football than at any previous time this season to come out of the melee victorious.

T. C. U. will be the only team to play outside the conference tomorrow. Opponent for the Christians will be Loyola of the south at New Orleans, which fell before Rice earlier in the season, 12 to 0.

The Rice-Loyola battle, however, will be no barometer for the comparative strengths of the conference leaders and T. C. U., observers contend, because of the rapid improvement of the Christians and the unknown present strength of the New Orleans collegians.

The Southern Methodist aerial circus was expected to repeat as winners over the Texas Aggies at Dallas. S. M. U. won last year, 19 to 0. The Mustangs probably will have little trouble in going through the A. & M. line which held Arkansas to seven points last week.

The Baylor eleven, in the opinion of sports observers, will face even more abuse at the hands of Texas players at Austin tomorrow. The Longhorns still were regarded as one of the three strongest teams despite a loss to Rice and a 7-to-7 tie with S. M. U.

Indications pointed to standings in the conference after the battles this week, as follows:

No. 1, Rice 1,000; No. 2, T. C. U. 867; No. 3, Arkansas 825; No. 4, Texas and S. M. U. 500; No. 5, A. & M. 375; Baylor .000.

Today's Sports Parade

United Press Sports Editor.

New York, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Ford Frick president of the National League.

If that isn't a success story in a few words there isn't any such thing.

Two years ago Ford was just one of the boys. It's true that he was one of the more outstanding boys, in that his readers paid some semblance of attention to what he pounded out on his portable and on the best his office had to offer. But he was still catching rattlers to the ball games, absorbing the moisture of unappetizingly timed football game showers and doing his best to make track meets and swimming carnivals sound as interesting as they are supposed to be.

In other words he was just another sports writer. Now he ranks with the top three of his favorite

UPSETS IN ORDER
IN GRID BATTLES

Chicago, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Banana reels were sprinkled all over Big Ten gridirons today.

Tomorrow is one of those days when it seems simple to pick every

Western Conference winner. That's an omen that one or more of the mighty may slip.

Minnesota, Illinois and Purdue, racing neck and neck for the Big Ten title, look like the Democratic landslide. Minnesota is a 10-1 favorite over Indiana at Minneapolis.

Illinois is a 5-1 favorite over Northwestern at Evanston. Purdue is a

4-1 favorite over Iowa at Iowa

City.

Ohio State and Chicago, tied for third place, meet at Columbus and the Buckeyes are 4-1 favorites.

The closest game of the day—on paper—is the Michigan-Wisconsin battle at Ann Arbor. Michigan is only a 3-1 choice.

Minnesota-Illinois-Purdue—Ohio

State-Michigan—that looks like the best parlay of the year, but sundown Saturday may catch one of those "sure things" lassoed and limping, battered and beaten, cornered and conquered.

But in Cleveland's big municipal stadium on the shores of Lake

Erie, two teams—Notre Dame and Navy—will start on equal terms and fight it out in what may develop into one of the season's sharpest hand-to-hand football skirmishes.

Navy, unbeaten and untied, will be battling to protect its perfect record. Notre Dame, at the crossroads after the Pitt defeat last week, 19-0, will strive to start a new victory streak which will carry the Irish to triumph over their remaining opponents, Northwestern, Army and Southern Californ-nia.

Seventy thousand fans are expected to see this eighth renewal of the Notre Dame-Navy series.

Last week Coach Elmer Layden of Notre Dame predicted his team would lose to Pitt by three touchdowns, qualifying himself as a prophet worth heeding. His prediction

this week is:

"Notre Dame to beat Navy."

sport, baseball; the others, of course, being Mr. Landis, the top man of the show, and Mr. Harridge whose name is gilded on the door of the American League headquarters.

Between noon when the National League came around to voting Ford in as president and 8 o'clock when the sweet scallion and vinegar valley poker club began its bi-weekly session to improve the breed of insider-straights, there must have been seven or eight persons who asked, in effect, "I see Ford Frick was elected president of the National League. Just what kind of a guy is he?"

The answer was "He's a real grand guy" and that's all the answer anybody needs.

For those who can take their baseball presidents or leave them and who don't pay much attention to such things, it might be set down that Ford, two years ago, was a baseball writer and radio commentator for the New York

Journal. An opening developed in the National League's service bureau. This is an office which supplies "dope" to sports writers. Ford got the job. He had held this job less than one year when John A.

Heydler announced suddenly, that he was resigning. Immediately talk of "Frick for President" was heard around the baseball loops.

This seemed a smart idea, but unlike so many such, this one actually crystallized.

The football result tables of the late Saturday and early Sunday newspapers ought to contain some illuminating information. If ever there was a week loaded for up-sets it's the present one. Harvard hasn't a chance against Army.

Wait and see. Minnesota will run

Indiana ragged—perhaps. Princeton over Lehigh, Columbia over

Brown, Stanford over Washington,

Florida over Mississippi—these are the sure things of the day. But the footballers ran almost disgust-ingly true to form last week and the week before and it's time for some plain and fancy upsets.

FATHER-SON KIDNAPERS OF TEXAS SHERIFF ARE JAILED NEAR DENISON

McAllen, Tex., Nov. 9. (U.P.)

Duff Hood and his son Carl, under indictment on charges of kidnapping Jack Rapp, Hidalgo County deputy sheriff, were arrested last night in northern Grayson

County, District Attorney Sid Hardin announced here.

Hardin said that the Hoods made a mistake when they hoped that they would be tried in a federal court. When they kidnaped

Rapp a month ago they allegedly took him across the Oklahoma line, explaining that they believed this action would cause federal charges to be placed against them if they were ever captured.

"We don't want to go to the state prison at Huntsville," they reportedly told Rapp before releasing him. Agents of the Department of Justice said tonight, however, that the Hoods would be released to Hidalgo County for trial.

Clifford Hood, another son of Duff, was wounded several days ago in a gunfight with officers at

Carthage, Mo. He will be returned to Hidalgo County for trial as soon as he is able to travel.

Shipments of coffee from Columbia this year were much greater than in 1933.

Cincinnati enjoyed the distinction for 20 years of being the worst governed American city.

Mr. Featherstone was born in 1870 in the state of New York. He was a telegraph operator on the Erie Railroad for twenty-five years.

He came to Marshall about a year ago to live with his sister, Mrs. Ernest Rothermund, who is his only surviving relative.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Funeral services will be held at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Father L. L. Meyer officiating.

Burial will be in St. Joseph's Catholic cemetery.

MINNESOTA FARMER IS WINNER OF NATIONAL CORN-SHUCKING MEET; GETS $25 AS HIS PRIZE

Fairmont, Minn., Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Ted Balke of Redwood Falls, typical range product of northwestern farms, was crowned national champion last night in the purely American rural sport of corn husking.

Seventy thousand spectators braved bristly cold weather, which kept them stamping their feet and slapping their sides, to follow Balke and other huskers down the long corn rows. Balke wiped perspiration from his forehead when the furious 80-minute grind was over.

His total husking was 25,786 bushels, considerably under the all-time contest record of 36.9 bushels set in 1932 by Carl Seilig of Illinois.

Balke did not know about his victory until three hours after the contest was over. Judges had to weigh each contestant's husking and deduct points for ears left on stalks, for those that missed the wagon and for excess husks.

Richard Anderson, Brandon, S. D., was second, with 22,919 bushels and Harry Brown, Beemer, Nebraska, was third with 22,916 bushels. L. B. Kahle, Illinois, 22,117 bushels, was fourth and Lee Stodgell, Iowa, 21,870 bushels was fifth.

The defending champion, Sherman Henriksen, Eagle, Neb., finished tenth with 20.3 bushels. Balke, veteran of five national championships, never has placed lower than fifth.

For the championship Balke received $100. Second place paid $60, third $25, fourth $15 and fifth place $10.

NEW EPIDEMIC OF SPY FEVER SWEEPS CONTINENTAL EUROPE. AMERICANS ARE CAUGHT IN NET

(Copyright, 1934, by United Press)

Paris, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Another epidemic of "spy fever" is sweeping the Continent, a United Press survey today showed.

There is unusual animation among those underworld gentry who swarm cosmopolitan capitals and resorts in Europe, making their living by spying on national military and industrial secrets.

Police nerves are jumpy and throughout Europe scores of men and women are arrested each week on charges of espionage. They usually are thrown into prisons without hope for early trials.

Following the sentence by a court in Belfort of Capt. Albert Froge, French army officer to five years in prison for espionage, his Polish accomplice, named Krauss, was sent to Devil's Island for five years by a court at Sarreguemines. Krauss confessed he was a spy in the employ of "a neighbor of France."

A suspended sentence was given in Paris today to an engineer, Lucien Devaux, charged with photographing new French fortifications in Alsace.

Simultaneously, the police published Article VI. of a law dated last January, forbidding amateurs to take pictures within 25 miles of the frontier fortifications. Devaux pleaded that he photographed the landscape near Bitch without meaning any harm—but it so happens that Bitch is one of the most secret heavily fortified strongholds in the entire French fortification chain.

Other indications of the "spy fever" and police nerves include the arrest in Germany of two Americans, Isabelle Lillian Steele, of Hollywood, and Richard Roeder, of Cleveland, Ohio, held since last summer presumably on espionage suspicions. Efforts of the State Department in Washington to free them so far have proved futile.

In France, an American couple, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Switz, of New Jersey, have been held for months pending trial on spy charges. They are said to have confessed, and hoped for light sentences, but their trials have been delayed from month to month while inquiry into their particular international spy ring proceeds slowly.

Their lawyer, Andre Klotz, protested the trial should have been held last June 1, but it appears unlikely they will face the court before January. Meanwhile, Mrs. Switz, the former Majorie Tilley, Vassar graduate, spends her days sewing and embroidering in her cell in Little Old Roquette, the women's prison in Paris.

The young couple are in excellent health, but Klotz says Switz is in very bad humor and constantly complains of his treatment in prison and the delays in their trial.

SUICIDES AFTER TRIPLE MURDER

Stoneham, Mass., Nov. 9. (U.P.)—An apparent triple murder and suicide was disclosed today with the finding of the bodies of Joel E. Lidquist, 27, his wife, Corinne, 26, and their two children, Syrenee, 2, and another daughter born only 12 days ago.

Lidquist, whose body was found hanging from a bedroom chandelier, apparently committed suicide after beating his wife unconscious, strangling her with a belt four inches wide, and slashing and stabbing the children to death with kitchen knives as they slept.

her of the telephone used and had furnished it to Austin police. He said the threat was not specific. It was to "get" him.

Some members suspected a practical joke on the crusading member. Others considered it seriously.

The centennial bill next was amended to change the proposed tax on hotels. The schedule now adopted calls for payment of two per cent gross receipts on the average number of occupied rooms rented for more than $2.50 per day.

The Senate bill that got ahead of the centennial tax today started with minor appropriations and finally totaled $70,000. as additions were made. The House added $7,500 for improvements at the Huntsville home of Sam Houston.

It was passed to third reading and stopped there temporarily when the House refused to suspend rules for final action.

Final passage was given to a House bill to permit counties to purchase material for erection of canneries in co-operation with state and federal relief organizations.

emerged a moment from the seclusion which enshrouded him through out the campaign to tell the United Press:

"The Republican party must have a program and it must be a forward looking one. It cannot function successfully as a mere party of negation. From progressive beginnings, the party for more than half a century was an efficient and faithful servant of the people. These values henceforth must be its guiding genius. In my opinion it will keep the faith."

Sen. Hiram W. Johnson (R) Cal., who was re-elected on Democratic, Republican and minor tickets, made no campaign speeches in his own behalf, but has been a bitter progressive critic of Republican party leadership.

A Loose Screw

There is a screw loose someplace in the machinery that is supposed to have highway construction done in Harrison County.

The Highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce has certainly done all it can, or should be expected to do, in getting approval of Highway 15 re-routed through Marshall.

The agencies of the state and federal governments have signified their willingness to carry their share of the expense of this construction project if they have proper co-operation from the local factors. That means the county court.

This is no time to delay a public-works project that will entail the expenditure of virtually a million dollars for the consideration of a few hundred dollars or a few hundred votes.

There is a screw loose somewhere and the people of Marshall and Harrison County are entitled to know where it is.

They want action.

Polls—Straw and Actual

The worthy editors of the Literary Digest must have a headache today, trying to figure out what the people of the United States think, anyway.

Perhaps they should, before trying to solve that problem, weigh the dependability of straw votes in general and save themselves future headaches. A straw vote is supposed to show which way the wind is blowing, and it does so far as it goes. But people, like a wind and the weather, can not be depended upon with any great degree of consistency. A voter who, because he disapproves of one or two proposed constitutional amendments, will scratch eight, can not be counted upon to think or perform predictably and the Texas electorate is no different from any other in that important respect.

The people of California accommodated the Literary Digest by voting at the polls as they did in the straw vote. But look what the rest of the nation did to the magazine's most recent indication that the New Deal was losing strength:

It unseated no less than nine and perhaps ten apparently well-established Republican senators, giving the Democrats a clear majority in the upper house and pre-eminence on a number of additional, important committees; It maintained the Democratic majority in the House by upwards of 300, giving the "ins" the strongest off-year representation in that body since Civil War days;

In Nebraska it elected to the Senate a New Dealer who ran strictly on the grounds of adherence to administration policy, against one who ran upon grounds of dissent.

Those are what you might call pay-off, not straw, votes. They are the ones that count.

800,000 Vote for EPIC

The amazing thing about the election in California was not the fact that an extremist was running, nor that an ultra-conservative should win, but that as many as 800,000 people should poll their votes for anything resembling Upton Sinclair's EPIC.

Man has spent much time—a great deal of it futilely—seeking Utopia. Some have dreamed of economic-social Utopias in which mankind's lions and lambs might dwell together in harmony, and some have gone so far as to try actual experiments in this direction. And it always has come to naught. It probably always will as long as the nature of man remains what it is.

It isn't that we don't believe in ideals. The fact is we have been accused of being to idealistic along some lines, and our idealism rather than our practical understanding of things has often prompted us to praise the New Deal. But we think idealism can be carried too far.

The reason for it is that the people are not ready for social idealism until personal idealism has been achieved. Given that the majority of men were motivated by impulses of good-will, honesty, kindness, unselfishness, then wholesale idealism would have been achieved. But so long as most men are not motivated by those impulses, anything in the way of universal peace and contentment, such as contemplated by Mr. Sinclair, is as far away as the east is from the west.

We would not impugn the motives of all the 800,000 who voted EPIC, but we suspect that most of them were out for all they could get. California has narrowly averted a disaster comparable to the placing of a stick of dynamite in the hands of a six-year old boy. The same stick of dynamite could be used well—where applicable—by a man trained to use it.

We aren't ready for Utopia yet.

Phin

The returns from last Tuesday's general election indicate, on their face, a sweeping, nationwide Democratic victory. It would almost appear that the Republicans have quit politics altogether.

To some, this is an indication of approval of the New Deal, but strange to say, to others it is almost the opposite. The interpretations placed upon it vary widely. They depend upon each individual

Interpreter's outlook.

I am no Mark Sullivan, widely versed in the art of political reporting. I am no politician, never having run for office (and having no intention of doing so) and as a mere sideline observer of politics I'm not so hot, for I have probably guessed wrong as to election outcomes more times than I have guessed right.

But—(with a big B)—if I were President Roosevelt I believe I would feel a considerable fear over the immensity of the success the party has attained at the polls.

It is all very well to know that in the House and the Senate there are enough partisan votes to put over any measure that may come to mind. It is an altogether different matter to have something on one's hands that threatens to grow into a "white elephant."

When the Republican party, in control of national affairs, had a normal majority in Congress, that is, when political balances were fairly well maintained, there was little fear in the public that the pendulum would swing too far in either direction.

At times when the Republican party grew too strong their political troubles began, for with the too conservative, too reactionary policies bred from the feeling that might makes right, the liberals and independents and progressives started in to throw monkey wrenches into the machinery.

The same sabotage is bound to occur in the present congress if it happens that the present enormous majority becomes unmanageable.

There will be those of the same fundamental political faith as the president who will feel that his policies are too conservative, others who will feel they are too radical. Neither will feel that they can go all the way with him at first and then, with growing dissatisfaction, they will conclude that they cannot travel with him at all.

The blocs they will form will be the unhappiest things that can occur for, as has happened in the not distant past in the Republican ranks, they will ally themselves with the enemy opposition in order to gain a show in strength. The compromises they will effect will be no credit to themselves nor to the New Deal.

I predict these conditions because I know that history often repeats itself. Parties come into power on vital, popular issues and outgrow the issues themselves. Then they topple over from their sheer weight weakened from the inward deteriorations caused by their dissatisfied factions. It would be better for any party (except in the matter of political patronage) to have a majority of one man only in each house of congress. In such compactness and union there would be real strength. And certainly such a line-up would be best for the country as a whole.

—PHIN.

LAW ENFORCEMENT, NOT TAXES, IS MORGENTHAU CURE FOR BOOTLEGGING

Washington, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Law enforcement rather than lower taxes is the solution of the bootlegging problem, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., said today.

Morgenthau noted a decrease in bootlegging over the last four months as indicated by a steady rise in the price of illicit alcohol and said co-operation of courts and public was instrumental.

Morgenthau also cited rising government tax revenues and rising state sales of liquor as evidence of progress in the war on bootlegging. "To say," Morgenthau said, "that bootlegging can be beat by reducing taxes is ridiculous. The most important item is the courts."

"Full Feeling" After Meals

Here is how Theodor's Black-Draught proved helpful to Mr. Archie W. Brown, of Fort Green, Fla.: "I have taken Black-Draught when I have felt dull from over-eating or eating too hurriedly," he writes. "Small doses right after meals rid me of gases and heavy feeling. I am a great believer in Black-Draught."

co-operation. We are particularly pleased with the co-operation of the courts—that is the answer to bootlegging, not taxes."

Morgenthau announced results of the government drive on illicit liquor from July 1, to Oct. 1, which showed 3,680 new alcohol tax cases. Of these 1,519 were disposed of and 1,322, or 87 per cent resulted in conviction. On Oct. 1, 5,377 cases were pending.

FEDERAL HOUSING PLAN REACHES TEXAS OWNERS

Dallas, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Organization to handle the new federal home construction and mortgage refinancing program is nearing completion, Micajah Woods, executive secretary to the regional housing director, has announced.

The regional office here will be ready to take over the new program, which is expected to begin

Dec. 1, Woods said. The same agencies now making repair loans will handle new construction financing, with life insurance companies added to the list, he said.

Detailed information on the procedure of the program has not been received by the office here.

TAKE AN AIRPLANE TRIP AND LEARN A THRILLING COFFEE SECRET!

WHY THIS RARE MOUNTAIN COFFEE GIVES YOU RICHER TANG AND FLAVOR

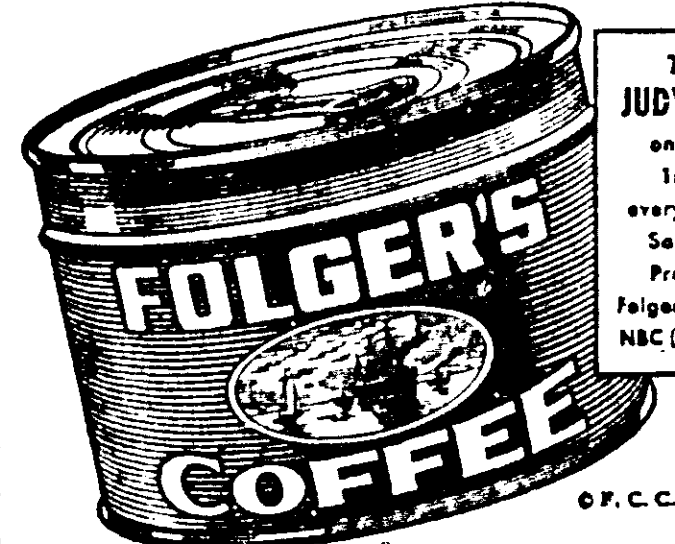

Really DIFFERENT from Any Other Coffee Known!

THERE'S no mystery about coffee. There are many grades of coffee just as there are many grades of silverware. The cheaper coffee comes from the lowlands. And the richer-flavored coffees come from high up in the mountains. Because Folger's is real mountain coffee—it is deliciously different from the lowland coffees used in ordinary brands. Folger's is grown on tiny plantations high up in the mountains—where clear, bright sunshine, steaming tropical rains, and an odd type of volcanic soil combine to give coffee a rare winy tang and extra rich flavor that makes ordinary coffee taste thin and flat by comparison. Experts know this. And they'll tell you there's no way of roasting or packaging coffee that can bring out flavor that nature didn't put there in the first place! Delicious tang and flavor has to be grown in—as it is in Folger's! It may be new to you—but you can easily afford to serve this finer coffee in your home. For even though you may pay a few pennies more per pound for Folger's—it's so much richer in flavor that you can use 1/4th less! That means you get more cups—and after all, that's the way to figure a coffee's cost—by its price per cup.

Folger's fresh mountain flavor is especially appealing to men! This coffee is served in the dining cars of 10 great railroads; in many of the finest hotels and clubs where men's tastes are catered to! Order Folger's for your home today!

BORAH PREDICTS END OF G. O. P. IF SHIFT NOT MADE

Political Cowardice Threat Pointed Out by Insurgent Leader

Chicago, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—The Republican party will die "of sheer political cowardice" if it is not rebuilt, Senator William E. Borah said today on his way to Washington.

Reorganization of the G. O. P. is possible, he said, only with entirely new leadership.

"Both the old parties have failed to deal with some of the major questions confronting us," he said. "I hope the president now will outline a program that is a definite one and not an emergency measure."

"Both parties for 30 years have promised to end monopolies and have failed to do so. The Republicans must realize, more than ever since this election, that they are not meeting the issues."

BANDIT GANG TAKES CHARGE OF TOWN BUT FAILS TO LOOT BANK

Cambridge, Wis., Nov. 9. (U.P.)—A bandit gang took possession of the village yesterday, firing upon citizens and terrorizing them, but was thwarted in attempts to blow open a bank safe.

Six men invaded the village, cut all telephone wires, stationed guards at the bank of Cambria and set off three charges of explosives in front of the vault.

Miss Erna Rousch, telephone operator, heard the first blast and threw in the fire siren switch, assembling scores of citizens in the main street of the village.

The citizens were met by a salvo of gunfire as two more charges of nitro-glycerin rocked the bank building. The outer door of the vault was blasted away but the bandits failed to get to the cash before they became frightened by the assembling crowd and fled in an automobile.

6 SENTENCED IN INUKAI SLAYING

Tokyo, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Six writers and agitators whose activities preceded the assassination May 15, 1932 of Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai today were given jail sentences for their part in the affair.

Young military cadets shot down Inukai, causing a tremendous furor in Japan and resulting in a decided break between conservative governmental forces and then rising army and navy heads.

Those sentenced today were considered to have been responsible in large part for the assassination.

Heaviest sentence was imposed on Shumei Okawa, author, who also gave financial assistance to participants in the plot. He was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Hideo Toyama and Kenichiro Homma, agitators, were given terms of four and five years respectively.

Lesser figures involved in the case, Kyo Nakasawa, Sadayoshi

Yamamoto, and Shinkei Yoshioka, were given three years' probation. Rumors were current after Inukai's death that his assassination had been engineered by militarists seeking control of the government. It also was rumored that he was killed in a plot to introduce Fascism into Japan.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICE SUNDAY

A special Armistice Day service will be held at the Trinity Episcopal Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Henry F. Selcer, rector, will direct the services.

The local units of National Guard, Boy Scouts, Spanish American war veterans and all ex-service men are especially urged to attend the services. Present plans are that all ex-service men meet on the court house lawn at 10:30 a. m. and march to the church in a body. The National Guard unit, under the command of Captain Ray Allen, will assemble at the armory and march to the church.

The services will be dedicated to those who made the supreme sacrifice in war. The program will include a violin solo by David Hunsard, violin instructor of the College of Marshall.

The general public is invited to attend.

PARCHMENT PAPER USES

Do you know how useful parchment paper is in the kitchen? Keep a package of it on hand for wrapping celery and lettuce for the icebox; for cucumbers that have been cut and not used; for fresh pineapple that has been cut; to cover meat or fish; to protect butter and keep it free from odors. Then too, it is useful in baking fish—line the baking pan with the parchment paper, place the fish on it and bake. The paper is easily discarded and the pan much easier to wash. Food can be cooked in parchment paper, or stored in it—you are sure to find it useful.

MILK IS EASILY CAMOUFLAGED BY CLEVER RECIPES

Family Milk Quota May Be Reached by Use of
New Dishes

If milk is not popular as a beverage at your house, try using some of the following recipes. Remember that each child of school age or younger should have a quart of milk each day and each adult a pint. If your family objects to drinking milk, there are other ways of using it in the diet that are just as effective from the health standpoint.

Baked Coconut Custard. Scald one quart milk and add four tablespoons sugar. Stir to dissolve the sugar and let cool slightly. Beat four eggs until foamy, add one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon grated nutmeg. Stir in the hot milk and add two-thirds cup grated coconut. Pour into a deep baking dish, place the dish in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees—for 45 minutes or until the custard is firm. May be baked in individual dishes, in which case 30 minutes will be long enough. Serve cold.

Creamy Rice Pudding. Wash one-third cup rice and boil for five minutes in one and a half cups of boiling, salted water. Do not drain, but pour into a buttered baking dish, add five cups scalded milk, one-half cup sugar, one-half teaspoon cinnamon and two tablespoons butter. Bake in a slow oven—250 degrees—for two hours, stirring occasionally, for the first hour and a half. Let cook undisturbed for the last half hour to form a nice brown crust. Serve warm or cold. One-half cup raisins may be added half an hour before the pudding is done.

Quick Chocolate Pudding. Mix one-half cup cocoa with two-thirds cup sugar and one-third cornstarch. Scald one quart milk, add one-half teaspoon salt and then add gradually to the cocoa mixture. When mixed, return to the saucepan and stir constantly over a slow fire until thick, smooth and boiling. Remove from the fire, add one teaspoon vanilla and pour into individual serving dishes. Cover the dishes with a sheet of waxed paper while cooling to prevent a dark crust forming on the puddings. When cold, put in the icebox to chill and serve plain or with cream.

Milk Sherbet. Scald one cup milk, add two-thirds cup sugar and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Add three cups cold milk and one cup thin cream. Next flavor as desired with one-half cup orange juice, or one-fourth cup lemon juice, one-half cup crushed canned pineapple, one tablespoon vanilla extract, etc. Freeze in an ice cream freezer. If you wish to freeze the sherbet in an automatic refrigerator, add one teaspoon plain gelatin softened in one-fourth cup cold water and dissolved in the hot milk, and use one cup heavy cream instead of the thin cream, whipping it until almost stiff. A good coffee sherbet is made by substituting one cup strong hot coffee for the cup of scalded milk, and flavoring with two teaspoons vanilla.

the bone, add 1½ cups canned tomato juice, any bits of celery, perhaps a little corn or any other vegetables on hand, together with two tablespoons of rice or tapioca. Boil gently for 30 or 40 minutes. Any combination of vegetables is possible, and the bone from a roast will always give flavor to vegetable stock. One good luncheon can be counted on from odds and ends used in this way. "Ice-box soup" is its nick-name in our house!

GRATED CHEESE WITH SOUP

To give a change in flavor—and to also provide added nutriment—sprinkle cream of spinach or cream of potato soup with grated Swiss or American cheese. You may use the cheese that comes ready grated in a handy sprinkler can, or grate the cheese yourself just before serving. All about two teaspoons to each portion and add the cheese just before serving the soup, or after it has been put into individual dishes.

TEN-MINUTE CRANBERRY SAUCE

One pound or quart (four cups) cranberries.
Two cups water.
One and one-half to two cups sugar.
Boil sugar and water together five minutes; add cranberries and boil without stirring (five minutes is usually sufficient) until all the skins pop open. Remove from the fire when the popping stops, and allow the sauce to remain in vessel undisturbed until cool.

For a Thinner Sauce. Just bring water and sugar to a boil—then add berries and let them cook until they stop popping.

PEACH Dainty.
One can peaches.
One can peach juice.
One-fourth cup orange juice.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One-half cup condensed milk.
Place sliced peaches in six individual sherbet glasses. Thoroughly blend fruit juices and condensed milk. Pour over peaches and chill. Serves six.
Bakeless Pudding.
One and one-third cups condensed milk.
Juice of one lemon.
One and one-fourth cups graham cracker crumbs.
Two eggs.
Blend together condensed milk, lemon juice and well beaten eggs. Stir until thick. Add graham cracker crumbs. Place in sherbet glasses. May be garnished with whipped cream and nut meats. Serves six.

CHOCOLATE SAUCE.
Combine two squares chocolate or one-half cup cocoa with one cup cold water and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add two cups sugar and stir until dissolved. Boil for three minutes, then add two tablespoons butter. Cool slightly and add two teaspoons vanilla or one teaspoon mint. Serve cold.

SHORT-CUT DESSERTS HELP SOLVE BUSY-DAY PROBLEMS

The clever housewife on a busy day doesn't cut down on dessert in order to shorten her time in the kitchen. Instead she chooses recipes for delicious short-cuts that supply all the demands of the sweet tooth, but at a greatly reduced expense of time and labor on her part. Here are short-cut recipes made with condensed milk, that need no cooking and can be made in five minutes:

Peach Dainty.
One can peaches.
One can peach juice.
One-fourth cup orange juice.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One-half cup condensed milk.
Place sliced peaches in six individual sherbet glasses. Thoroughly blend fruit juices and condensed milk. Pour over peaches and chill. Serves six.

Bakeless Pudding.
One and one-third cups condensed milk.
Juice of one lemon.
One and one-fourth cups graham cracker crumbs.
Two eggs.
Blend together condensed milk, lemon juice and well beaten eggs. Stir until thick. Add graham cracker crumbs. Place in sherbet glasses. May be garnished with whipped cream and nut meats. Serves six.

"ICE-BOX SOUP"
Most households could advantageously serve homemade vegetable soup once a week and have the flavor a different one each time. For example, the knuckle bone of a baked ham is used to make the stock, or rather to flavor it. Put the ham bone with an onion, a handful of celery leaves, a carrot and one-half cup dried lima beans (soaked overnight) in a saucepan with cold water to cover. Simmer for two hours, remove the bone, add 1½ cups canned tomato juice, any bits of celery, perhaps a little corn or any other vegetables on hand, together with two tablespoons of rice or tapioca. Boil gently for 30 or 40 minutes. Any combination of vegetables is possible, and the bone from a roast will always give flavor to vegetable stock. One good luncheon can be counted on from odds and ends used in this way. "Ice-box soup" is its nick-name in our house!

SMALL TOWN OIL CODE PROBLEMS ARE STUDIED

Washington, Nov. 9. (AP)—The petroleum labor policy board today held a hearing to determine whether provisions of the oil code shall continue to apply to petroleum market operations conducted in communities of less than 2,500 population.

Under a proposed code change on which the hearing is based it would be provided that provisions of Section One to Five inclusive, and section eight of Article Two shall not apply to petroleum market operations in towns of less than 2,500 population. Article Two deals with wages, hours and part time employment.

JELLIED PRUNE-ORANGE SALAD

One tablespoon gelatin.
One-fourth cup cold water.
Juice of one lemon.
Twelve large prunes.
One orange, cut in small pieces.
One-half cup celery, diced.
One cup marshmallows, cut into eighths.
One-half cup almonds, blanched and chopped.
One cup raisins, chopped.
Soak gelatin in the one-fourth cup cold water for 5 minutes. Cook prunes until tender. Stone and cut in rather large pieces. When cooked there should be one and three-fourths cups liquid. In this dissolve gelatin, add lemon juice and, when cool, add other ingredients. Pour into mold and chill. Serve with mayonnaise or fruit salad dressing. Serves eight.

APPLE SOUFFLE

Two-thirds cup condensed milk.
Two tablespoons lemon juice.
One egg, separated.
One-half cup dry cookie or cake crumbs.
One-half cup apple sauce, unsweetened.
Blend condensed milk with lemon on juice and egg yolk. Add cake or cookie crumbs and one-half cup apple sauce which have been blended together. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Pour into buttered baking dish. Bake 30 minutes, or until delicately brown, in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Serve with whipped cream, if desired. Serves four.

TOOK PILLS FOR 30 YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Mr. Forsythe Endorses ALL-BRAN for Constipation

If you suffer from headaches, loss of appetite and energy or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read this voluntary letter:

"After taking pills and tablets for about thirty years for constipation, I started to take your ALL-BRAN three times a day according to directions. Today I can eat cheese, and that is binding, and certainly feel fine."—Mr. Ed. Forsythe, Box 219, Youngstown, N. Y.

Science says ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using patent medicines—so often habit-forming?

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. In serious cases use with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

MEN WHO CHANGE NAME PLATES ON SENATOR'S CHAIRS GET REAL HEADACHE OUT OF THE ELECTION

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, Nov. 8. (U.P.)—The boys who have charge of the seating in the United States Senate got out their screw drivers today and prepared to carry out the will of the electorate by changing the brass name-plates on the desks.

They got a bigger headache out of the election that anybody in town with the possible exception of the Republican national committee. Senators frequently get temperamental about where they sit. A wide aisle runs down the center of the senate chamber. Republicans (yeah, both of 'em) sit on the left side of it, Democrats on the right. The seating boys said their biggest problem was what to do with Sen. Hiram Johnson of California who got elected on the Republican, Democratic and practically every other ticket except the kind sold by railroads. Up to now, he has been sitting on the Republican side, but it's going to be pretty lonely over there now and he may want to move.

One workman suggested putting the Johnson desk out in the middle of the aisle, but that was vetoed as too dangerous because of Huey Long's half-back rushes down the aisle when it's the third reading of a bill and two votes to go.

The vote having turned out the way it did, it now appears there won't be enough room on the Democratic side for all the Democrats, the boys said a strip of desks on the Republican side (a "Cherokee strip" is what they call it) would have to be occupied by Democrats. After what happened in Pennsylvania, the boys think the Democrats who have to sit on the Republican side are going to be plenty mad for fear the news will get back home.

It seemed likely that Sen. Robert La Follette of Wisconsin, who now is officially known as a "progressive," would continue to sit with the Republicans and vote with the Democrats. The same is true of Sen. Henrik Shipstead, a Farmer-Laborite from Minnesota. He always has insisted on having his desk right next to the center aisle so that he could slip over with the Democrats whenever he felt like it, which is oftener than not.

GIRLS WITHOUT MEN by NELLY GRAF

Lark Ewing, daughter of a millionaire, breaks her engagement to Bob Thaxton because she has seen so many unhappy marriages. She leaves home and joins a club, the Bachelorettes, the object of which is independence from men. But she soon regrets her action when Bob turns to another girl. And she is dismayed when her father, who has been leaving her strictly alone, comes under the influence of Mrs. Chesterfield Hill, a designing widow. When Mr. Ewing goes abroad, Mrs. Hill causes his secretary, Elma Patterson, to be dismissed. Elma joins Lark at the club, and grows desperate when her money runs low. Meanwhile, to spite Bob, Lark has been dashing around with Ken Boving. She tells Elma that she intends to marry him, Elma protests.

CHAPTER XXIX.

Elma made a gesture of resignation. "Well, why should I worry, anyway?" she said grimly. "By the time you marry Ken, I'll probably have tried something like Betty did. Only, in my case..."

"Elma! Lark was beside her, instantly conspicuous that her own unhappiness had let her forget Elma's troubles. "Are things so bad? Please let me help you!"

"No," Elma shook her head. "It would be just robbing Peter to pay Paul. Besides, desperate as I feel, I have, at last, got a possible job lined up—as assistant to a dentist. But I'm too discouraged to allow my hopes to soar very high."

The telephone tinkled. "There's a messenger boy down here to see Miss Patterson," the switchboard operator told Lark when she answered the summons.

Elma turned pale when Lark delivered the message.

"I can't go down," she said fearfully. "It must be a wire from my folks—my mother—maybe she is worse—because of the lack of the things she needs! Oh, Lark!"

"You come on," Lark took hold of her friend. "It may be good news. Maybe it is about that job. Come on, I'll go down with you."

Lark dragged Elma after her, scolding her as they descended the stairs. "I'm ashamed of you, Elma—never thought I'd see you acting such a coward. If you don't snap out of it, I'll disown you—or something."

The messenger boy—not a telegraph boy, but an office boy from somewhere—advanced to meet them.

"Here," He held out an envelope. "It burns my fingers."

Lark said sharply, "What are you talking about? Is that the message for Miss Patterson?"

"Ain't a message," The boy grinned. "Unless you call a certified check for eight hundred bucks a message."

Elma took the envelope, opened it gingerly, and stared at the check. She seemed incapable of either action or speech.

"Sign here," The boy held out a slip of paper. "And you, miss," he addressed Lark. "Will you please sign as a witness?"

Elma finally found speech. "Where did this come from?"

"I can't tell you that," the boy grinned. "It's a secret."

Back in their room, Elma and Lark faced each other. "Well, Lady Gloom," said Lark, "if eight hundred dollars isn't good news, I'd like to know what is!"

"Lark, do you realize that this is the amount of money I would have earned if I had my job the last few months!" Elma's voice rose in excitement.

Lark caught her breath. "It's my father! He must be home! Who else could it be? I'm going to phone home right now!"

They both waited tensely until a woman's voice replied to Lark's telephone call. "Mr. Ewing is abroad."

Lark hung up the receiver with a puzzled frown. "Well, it couldn't be my father," she mused. "But let's quit worrying about where it came from as long as you have it. And I'll bet good things start coming in bunches. I'll bet you get that job with the dentist."

Lark's prophecy proved correct. Elma did get the job, and when she set out to report for work two mornings later, her step was brisk, her eyes held the old sparkle, and she was again the girl Lark had envied and admired.

"If my father could only see you now!" Lark said as they stopped

PROFESSIONAL MODELS AND DEBS AGREE THEY WON'T BE CHISELERS

Chicago, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Professional models and society girls at a "true" session have established a working agreement by which the socialites will not take any modelling jobs which can be given the professional mannequins.

At a meeting at the Hotel Sherman, called to settle complaints of the professional models that society girls were taking their jobs, the society models agreed to take only those jobs which are given them solely because of their social standing. All other assignments they agreed, would be turned over to the models who "work for a living."

nearer Ken, and placed her hand on his arm affectionately. Ken started the roadster and deftly moved into the stream of traffic. Lark slumped back into her seat. Now she was even with Bob Thaxton! But there was no triumph in the thought. Revenge held no balm. Rather, it reawakened a deadened pain. Lark drew her coat more closely about her and closed her eyes.

RAY HAMILTON'S AIDE GIVEN 5-YEAR TERM

Huntsville, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—Austin Avers, charged with aiding the state penitentiary death house escape of Raymond Hamilton and two other convicts last July, pleaded guilty here and was sentenced to a five-year prison term.

According to the charge, Avers was the man who arranged for weapons to be smuggled into the prison for the men, and got away automobiles waiting outside the penitentiary at the time of the escape.

Those who escaped with Hamilton were Irvin (Blackie) Thompson and Joe Palmer. Palmer was recaptured a few days later. Hamilton and Thompson still are at large.

Eleven hundred bars of silver valued at $550,000 were shipped recently from Southampton, England, to New York.

PIRANDELLO IS NOBEL WINNER IN LITERATURE

Italian Author of Numerous Plays and Books is Singled Out

Stockholm, Nov. 9. (U.P.)—The Nobel prize for literature today is the award of Luigi Pirandello, internationally known Italian novelist and playwright.

His writings have been varied, including poetry, plays and prose. Pirandello was selected from a host of American and European literary figures mentioned for the prize this year, including Eugene O'Neill.

Among the best known works by Pirandello are "As You Desire Me"; "Six Characters in Search of an Author"; "The Man With the Flower in His Mouth"; "The Mock Emperor"; and "The Life I Gave You."

The prize normally is worth $45,000, varying with exchange. It went to Ivan Bunin, Russian author, last year.

Pirandello was born at Girgenti, Sicily, in 1867 and educated in Rome and the University of Bonn.

He lives in Rome. He is short and stocky, usually quiet, almost reticent, but when his interest is aroused he becomes voluble. Some critics have declared Pirandello deliberately sets out to confuse an audience when he writes plays, but he denies it.

He likes to tell a story on himself of the time he sat in a Milan theater where one of his plays was in performance. A stranger sitting next to him and leaned over, whispering: "Pirandello does not fool me at all. All one has to do is simply read the opposite meaning into his plays, and there's your solution."

Pirandello on returning recently from a lengthy stay in the United States confided to a friend that he was disappointed with American civilization. He was quoted as saying he had "no sympathy for mechanical progress."
